Churchill To Take A Rest

Big Three Postpone Bermuda Conference As Doctor Orders A Complete Rest

LONDON, June 27—(AP)—Wan and exhausted, 78-year-old Prime Minister Churchill retired today to his country home on doctor's orders for a "complete rest" of at least a month, and thereby forced the Big Three to postpone their Bermuda conference again.

The Foreign Office said he would meet President Eisenhower and French Premier Joseph Laniel on the Atlantic isle as soon as he is fit again for vital talks on such issues as Korea and a possible Big Four showdown conference with Soviet Premier Malenkov.

Churchill, who drives himself mercilessly, buckled under the strain of simultaneously running the government, playing his role in coronation festivities and acting for ailing Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, the No. 2 man in the British government who is recovering in Boston from a gall bladder operation.

A world-renowned nerve specialist is attending him.

The elder statesman had planned to sail for Bermuda Tuesday night on the battleship Vanguard. The conference had been set for July 8 after being postponed from two earlier dates because France was without a premier. Only yesterday the way was finally cleared by the French National Assembly's approval of Laniel as the new premier.

Churchill Phones Ike

After hearing his doctors' verdict, Churchill reluctantly telephoned President Eisenhower and Premier Laniel and arranged the postponement.

He turned over the reins of government temporarily to R. A. Butler, chancellor of the Exchequer, a 50-year-old progressive and ambitious politician considered by many to be his political heir apparent.

Britain's old "John Bull" for half a century apparently was not seriously ill. Even as the news was announced, he was puttering about Cartwell, his 26-room home 30 miles southeast of London and arranging to have important papers sent him for perusal.

The text of the announcement from his official residence, 10 Downing Street.

"In consequence of the attached medical report the Prime Minister, after consultation with the President of the United States and the French Prime Minister, has postponed the Bermuda conference.

"The medical report:

"'The Prime Minister has had no respite for a long time from his very arduous duties and is in need of complete rest.

He'll Rest A Month

"'We have therefore advised him to abandon his journey to Bermuda and to lighten his duties for at least a month.

"'Moran

"'Russell Brain.'"

Lord Moran is Churchill's lifelong friend and personal physician, who has pulled him through penumonia and other periodic illnesses and whom Churchill once introduced to Pope Pius as "the man who saved my life."

Brain is Sir Russell Brain, president of the Royal College of Physicians and one of the world's leading authorities on nervous diseases.

3 Die In Crash Of Truck, Train At Wichita, Kan.

WICHITA, Kan., June 27—(AP)—A Rock Island passenger train smashed into a gasoline transport truck near here today, and the truck driver and two train crewmen died in the fiery crash.

Police said a witness told them the transport stopped before reaching the crossing. Then it started ahead and the train hit it. The truck exploded and rolled down the track for more than a mile.

The diesel engine and three baggage cars caught fire and were damaged before the blaze was put out. One baggage clerk jumped from the train and was slightly burned.

The train, enroute to Wichita from Kansas City, struck the transport at Killian, a suburb, and came to a stop just inside the Wichita city limits.

The crewmen killed were Harold C. Mowat, fireman, and Walter Keith, engineer, both of Herington, Kan. The truck driver was Hiebert Grundman, 41, Wichita.

Hammarskjold Urges UN To Lower Aims

Hammarskjold broadcast (CBS) his ideas in his first major address on world affairs since taking over as U. N. secretary general from Trygve Lie. It was made to mark the signing of the U. N. Charter in San Francisco eight years ago yesterday.

House Backs Ike Shakeup Of US Defense

WASHINGTON, June 27—(AP)—The House brushed aside cries of "Prussian military dictatorship" today and approved by a 2 to 1 margin President Eisenhower's plan to revamp the Defense Department.

The proposal goes into effect automatically Tuesday unless rejected by a majority of the full membership of the Senate, which so far has shown no inclination to oppose it seriously.

The actual House vote, after 10 hours of debate yesterday and today, came on a resolution by Rep. Condon (D-Calif) to disapprove the projected reorganization. Condon's resolution lost by a 234-108 count. To pass, it would have required 218 votes, a majority of the full House membership.

The unusual Saturday session was called to settle the row, stirred by a determined group of Republicans and Democrats, over sections in the plan which increase the authority of the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. The rest of the proposal was not in controversy.

Generally, the reorganization would clarify the authority of the civilian secretary of defense over many functions of the military. It would also abolish the Munitions Board and the Research and Development Board and transfer their functions directly to the secretary. Six new assistant secretariats would be created.

Ike Nears Showdown On Power

He Seems Determined To Crack The Whip On Major Proposals If Compromise Fails

WASHINGTON, June 27—(AP)—President Eisenhower is heading into the critical period of his congressional relations with indications that he is determined to crack the whip on major legislative proposals if compromises fail.

The President's support of a move to force a House vote on his proposal for a six-month extension of the excess profits tax apparently has convinced lawmakers he can get tough if persuasion fails.

But congressional leaders who know him best say Eisenhower doesn't like the whip cracking role and will continue to compromise where he can do so without losing prestige or conceding defeat on legislation classed as "must".

The tax fight is yet to be won in the House and Eisenhower's lieutenants face some other stiff battles before they can add up their legislative accomplishments and call them good.

One Of Few Departures

In one of the few occasions in which they have departed from support of presidential proposals, Senate Democrats are lining up for a last-ditch fight against Eisenhower's cutback of five billion dollars in Air Force money requests.

Unless the signs are wrong, the President is going to win that and some other budget-cutting tests. He apparently will get somewhat less than the $5,318,000,000 in foreign aid funds he requested.

Unless there is an upset, Congress also will approve a year's extension of the reciprocal trade agreements program. It already has voted submerged lands bills he asked for and has continued his government reorganization powers.

But some of the "must" legislation listed by GOP leaders after a conference with the President early in February already is being put on the shelf until next year.

The House-approved Hawaiian statehood bill, proposed amendments to the Taft-Hartley Act and social security expansion are in this category.

One Request Defeated

The White House and State Department had to admit defeat on one presidential request—a resolution to condemn Russia for enslaving other people. It was put in cold storage as a result of an intra-party fight over whether also to condemn the Yalta and Potsdam agreements made with the Soviet by Democratic presidents. A bill to simplify customs procedures—promised by Eisenhower in his State of the Union Message—thus far has been stuck in the House Ways and Means Committee. Its fate is doubtful because of the resentment created among members by the House Rules Committee's action in taking the excess profit tax measure out of the ways and means files and bringing it before the House.

This whip cracking operation, carried out at Eisenhower's behest, may backfire on the customs bill and some other measures.

Deaths Pass 1,000 In Japanese Flood

TOKYO, Sunday, June 28—(AP)—The rising toll of modern Japan's worst flood seemed certain to pass 1,000 today with more than 600,000 homeless and damage well in excess of 33 million dollars. More rain was forecast for the stricken southern island of Kyushu.

No U. S. casualties were reported and three big U. S. bases, all on high ground, escaped damage.

Illinois Police Seek Far-Sighted Thief

BELLEVILLE, Ill., June 27—(AP)—Police said they are seeking a foresighted thief who took two ultra high frequency television set converters from a TV service shop early today.

Belleville's UHF TV station is scheduled to begin operation in a short time. Converters are valued at $88.

Proponents Lose Their Fight For Tuttle Creek Dam Funds

WASHINGTON, June 27—(AP)—Proponents of the controversial Tuttle Creek Dam in Kansas have lost their battle to have Congress include funds in the annual flood control appropriation bill for continued work on the project during the next year.

No effort was made from the floor to include the project as the Senate debated and passed the annual civil functions appropriation bill providing funds for flood control projects for the year beginning July 1.

Earlier the House, following recommendations of its appropriation committee, had provided nothing for the Tuttle Creek project in the bill it passed and sent to the Senate.

The House rejected an amendment by Rep. Scrivner (R-Kan), calling for a five million dollar appropriation for the project.

The Senate appropriations committee also did not include any funds for Tuttle Creek in the recommendations sent to the Senate floor.

Both Senate and House appropriations subcommittees had heard members of large delegations argue for and against appropriations for Tuttle Creek. Among opponents was Rep. Howard S. Miller (D-Kan) who defeated Rep. Albert Cole (R-Kan) on a platform of opposition to the project. Cole later was appointed housing and home finance director by President Eisenhower.

The last Congress appropriated five million dollars to start work on the project. Construction got underway.

The Truman budget, sent to Congress last January, recommended appropriation of $15,800,000 for the year beginning July 1 for continued construction. But the Eisenhower budget, sent to Congress later, did not include Tuttle Creek Dam.

CATTLEMEN ASK DROUTH AID—A group of cattlemen from drouth-stricken areas of the Southwest and West leave the White House after being assured by President Eisenhower that the Administration will do everything possible to help them. The President said he will ask for new relief legislation if necessary.

Dr. D. H. Robinson To Head Crippled Children's Society

Dr. D. H. Robinson has been selected as the new chairman of the Pettis County Crippled Children's Society succeeding the Rev. William C. Bessmer, who will leave soon for Great Bend, Kan., to reside.

John McCloskey will serve as chairman of the seal sale, Mrs. C. F. Fischer Jr., secretary and Mrs. J. C. Connor, treasurer.

The Rev. Mr. Bessmer, who has been chairman of the Crippled Children's Society for the past several years, has done commendable work and has given wholeheartedly of his services.

In the campaign which just closed, more than $1,700 which came from the sale of Easter seals for Pettis County and this is one of the best years the Pettis County Society has ever known.

The Pettis County Crippled Children's Society, which was organized by Miss Alberta Chase, state secretary, was the first county organization in the State of Missouri, and it functions so quietly that the people of this county do not realize the great service it is giving.

Only recently a young boy needed surgery which would cost about $1,200, and it was through the Pettis County Crippled Children's Society that money became available. Six hundred dollars of that amount came from the Meeker fund, established for just such a purpose. This could not have been obtained had not the county society known the contacts. The other $600 came from the rehabilitation fund.

There was another case of a spastic who, through the rehabilitation fund, became a lawyer in Washington, D. C.

There are many other cases in Pettis County, and each Tuesday it is clinic day in Columbia, where several children, accompanied by their mothers, are taken to the clinic. The doctors then tell the mothers what the children need, but it is the money furnished by the Pettis County Crippled Children's Society which makes the visits to the clinic possible. This money, also, pays for the type shoes the child needs and when a mother sees her child needs another pair, makes application and the shoes are provided.

The Crippled Children's Society finds' cooperation from the Pettis County Medical Society, case workers at the Pettis County Welfare office and other groups. The organizations and clubs in the county contribute in cash and various other ways each year.

And so, the Pettis County Crippled Children's Society, with the help of the people of the county, goes on, finding children who are crippled, taking them at Columbia, to Mercy Hospital in Kansas City and other hospitals, providing the needs for the children, and seeing that they are given the training that will give them a way to make a living.

Benson Vows Dry Regions Will Get Aid

LUBBOCK, Tex., June 27—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson sifted the drought-dry soil of West Texas through his fingers today and promised federal aid to harassed farmers and ranchers in the Southwest's worst drought threat.

The Cabinet member—wearing a new pair of Texas cowboy boots—plodded across acre after acre of withered crops and pastures for a first hand look at the damage.

He shucked his coat and sat down with delegations from Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Kansas, and Colorado and heard discouraging reports.

Lack of water, money and feed covered the discussions.

Benson then stood in the jammed ballroom of a local hotel and announced his decision on four problems:

1. The Department of Agriculture must make available cotton seed and other food byproducts for the maintenance of herds and flocks "at prices producers can afford to pay."

2. The department will try to get lower rail rates to the drought areas—"We've got to get the livestock and the feed together."

3. "We may find it necessary for a stepped up buying program of meat and lower grade livestock. . . it would be a move to get lower grade livestock into consumption, not in storage."

4. "Some method must be worked out for emergency credit, using existing agencies as far as possible. . . You people are not asking handouts, just a little help in an emergency."

Benson said the exact counties included in the drought areas of Texas and Oklahoma which would be eligible for such aid would be announced Monday.

Benson's busy schedule included a tour of the drought area near here this morning, a speech at 11 a. m. to the American Cotton Congress, a luncheon appearance, and the drought discussions this afternoon.

Late today he flew to Austin for a talk with Gov. Allan Shivers on how the state and federal governments can combine efforts in the drought relief. Tonight he will talk in San Antonio with more worried farmers and ranchers.

Mrs. W. E. Kemp Dies In London Hospital

LONDON (AP)—Mrs. William E. Kemp, 59, wife of the mayor of Kansas City, died in a hospital here early today. She was operated on for a brain tumor here June 8.

Mrs. Kemp became ill May 20 while she and her husband were official guests of the city of Nottingham. They had come to England to visit their daughter, Miss Sarah Belinda Kemp, and to attend the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II.

The daughter is a scholarship student at the London School of Economics.

Mrs. Kemp was a native of Warrensburg, Mo., where her father, E. N. Johnson, was a banker many years.

Mayor Kemp said he plans to return home as soon as possible.

Boulder Kills Worker In An Oklahoma Mine

CARDIN, Okla., June 27—(AP)—James Franklin Davis, 40, of Chetopa, Kan., was reported crushed to death today while working near here in an American Lead, Zinc and Smelting Co. mine.

Davis died shortly after a boulder fell on him, pinning him to a mechanical dirt loader which he was operating, a spokesman said.

Both Sides Prepare For Profit Tax Scrap

WASHINGTON, June 27—(AP)—Angry charges swelled from both sides today as President Eisenhower prepared a last-minute appeal for House support in his battle to extend the excess profits tax.

Leaders agreed the floor fight on the issue, set for Monday, would be close and bitter—the toughest the administration has faced in the House this year.

Ike Prepares To Open Fight Against Drouth

WASHINGTON, June 27—(AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) told the Senate today that President Eisenhower is "ready to act under any clear, legal power that he possesses" to aid drought-stricken areas of Texas and the Southwest.

Johnson, Senate Democratic leader, said he had "discussed the situation personally with President Eisenhower early this week" and presidential powers are under study.

Eisenhower last night declared drought stricken sections of Texas and Oklahoma to be "major disaster areas" and thus eligible for federal aid.

Just what type of aid will be provided will depend upon recommendations of Secretary of Agriculture Benson, who is making a personal on-the-scene study.

Johnson said the President has emergency legislation ready to authorize rushing "feed to stricken areas for sale to the stockmen at reasonable prices."

Johnson said immediate action is needed for the stockmen along these lines:

"There must be long-term credit at low rates."

"There must be steps to move feed into the stricken areas where it can be sold at reasonable prices.

"There must be aid in refinancing the indebtedness of farmers and stockmen-helping them with debts they cannot meet through no fault of their own.

"There must be a solution to the lack of balance between food and cattle prices."

4-H Clubs Plan Annual Picnic For Businessmen

The second annual 4-H picnic for business and civic leaders of Sedalia will be held at Liberty Park Wednesday, July 14.

A short program will start at 6:45 p. m. and a fried chicken picnic dinner, entirely furnished by the 4-H clubs will be served at 7 o'clock.

Square dancing for 4-H people and their guests will be held later in the evening.

Tickets for the picnic will be mailed about a week before to Chamber of Commerce members and people supporting the activity fund. This year there will also be tickets for the wives of C. of C. members.

Each year the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce entertains the 4-H club members with an achievement banquet in the fall, and the youngsters feel that their picnic is the best way to become acquainted with business men and civic leaders in Sedalia. There is no county in which such good friendships exist between a town and the rural area surrounding as in Pettis County, and both the people of Sedalia and the 4-H members are proud of it.

The 4-H members are expecting to have between 1,800 and 2,000 people at their picnic and there will be plenty of friend chicken and everything else for everybody.

Qualified persons are urged to apply immediately.

Negotiations Continue

Robertson Certain He Can Clear-Up Trouble With Rhee

SEOUL, Sunday, June 28—(AP)—Walter S. Robertson, President Eisenhower's special envoy, conferred in secret with fiery President Syngman Rhee today and afterward told newsmen, "I have confidence we can reach a mutual agreement and clear up misunderstandings that may exist between us."

Robertson added "the negotiations are still continuing." He said he had called on Rhee "to clear up a detail."

It was the third meeting between the two since Robertson arrived three days ago. A fourth may be held later today.

When newsmen asked about possible progress in his efforts to get Rhee to agree on a Korean armistice, Robertson replied, "I hope they are going well."

The envoy said his scheduled flying tour of the Korean front had been canceled entirely.

Robertson went to Rhee's presidential mansion about 9:30 a. m. (6:30 p. m., Saturday, CST) and left at 10:20 a. m.

Rhee May End Opposition

As they met, a report circulated in official quarters that Rhee might drop his bitter opposition to an armistice for a promise of U. S. military aid against future Red aggression.

U. N. Commander Gen. Mark W. Clark, who joined Robertson in yesterday's meeting with Rhee did not attend today's session.

Clark conferred at Eighth Army Headquarters with Gen. J. Lawton Collins, retiring U. S. Army chief of staff who flew to Korea from Washington with Robertson, and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor.

Rhee was described as "very happy" after his second talk with Robertson yesterday. The American envoy said he was "very optimistic" about the progress of his mission to remove Rhee's defiance of an armistice, which was near the signing stage.

Rhee Wants Military Aid

Robert Eunson, Associated Press Tokyo bureau chief, said a highly-placed South Korean source indicated Rhee might drop his fiery opposition to a truce if the U. S. would pledge military aid to the southern republic should the Reds launch another attack.

The South Korean spokesman told Eunson that the pact "is the one point the President will never back down on."

He said that Rhee "may give in on the other two points but he will never give in on the defense pact."

The "other two points," the spokesman referred to were Rhee's previous insistence upon withdrawal of Allied and Chinese Communist forces from Korea and a three-month time limit on political conferences to follow an armistice.

Rain Stalls Chinese Push On East Front

SEOUL, Sunday, June 28—(AP)—Pounding rains and raging mountain streams today stalled the big Chinese Red offensive on Korea's East-Central Front, giving battered ROK soldiers previous time to shore up their defense line 12 miles north of the vital Hwachon Reservoir.

In the West, the weather worked for the Communists. It blocked South Korean attempts to regain three outpost hills still held by attacking Chinese near the Little Nori sector north of Seoul.

The weather was so bad Allied B-26 bombers made only nine strikes against the big Communist bulge below Kumsong during the night. A few flare planes braved the heavy skies and lighted up the battlefield for ROK and American artillerymen.

In the critical sector east of the Pukhan River the Reds—reported to be the vanguard of some 72,000 troops—made a battalion size attack this morning.

But the situation still was officially described as "confused and fluid." Another six or seven mile stab by the Reds would put them within artillery range of the big Hwachon power project.

And the Reds proved Saturday they have those big guns ready. They fired their greatest barrage of the Korean War—a whopping 130,960 rounds—against Allied positions across the front in the 24 hours ended at 6 p. m.

The Third ROK Division in the Lookout Mountain sector of the East-Central Front received 81,052 rounds—the worst artillery barrage any U. N. division has been subjected to since the war started.

In the west, 40 miles north of Seoul, a Chinese Red division—10,000 to 12,000 men—knocked South Korean 1st division men off three of five outposts assaulted since Friday. Censorship clouded the exact points of these attacks beyond placing them west of Yonchon and north of the main Imjin River line.

The East-Central Front drive was the more serious. So far, after gains of more than a mile Saturday, the Reds held nothing but prestige and more hills. But it could begin to hurt if it isn't stopped soon.

A Red advance south would imperil the reservoir area. An equal drive southwest would allow Red artillery to cut the Chunchon-Kumhwa road linking the Central Front. Chunchon is 45 miles northeast of Seoul. Kumhwa is more than 35 miles northwest of Chunchon.

A short drive southeast by the Reds would threaten to flank Allied - held Heartbreak Ridge. Heartbreak is a mile east of Mundung and about 30 miles northeast of Kumhwa.

Arthur Brill Ends 30½ Years Of Democrat-Capital Employ

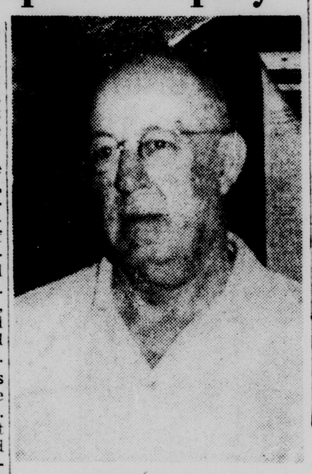

Arthur Brill, 66, press room foreman of the Sedalia Capital, morning newspaper, has retired from active work. Brill has been with the Sedalia Democrat Co., for 30½ years, and will now assist in the press room on a part-time basis.

He began his career in the newspaper business in December, 1922 when he took over the pressman's job with the Capital, located in what is now the Knights of Columbus Bldg., Fourth and Lamine. He ran the old flat-bed Goss-Comet press in the basement. The news room, advertising dept., and composing room were located on the first floor, now occupied by the Bankers Guaranty Life Co.

Before taking the pressman's job, Brill was employed at the Missouri Pacific blacksmith shop. He worked there for 17 years, part of this time being interrupted when he went into the army during World War I. While in the service he was in the air corps and served in England and France.

When the Capital was consolidated with the Democrat, Brill remained with the Capital and was made night foreman of the press room.

He has seen the changing of the newspaper presses from the old Goss-Comet, which he first operated, to a 12-page Duplex tubular press in the 20's and then the 16-page Duplex tublar press now in use. During those 30 years he has seen many mechanical improvements in the press room with installation of the most modern equipment used in that department of a newspaper.

Arthur Brill

Brill will continue with the Democrat-Capital in a part-time capacity, which was effective June 1, handling the press room work on Saturday nights.

He is active in the American Legion and is Chef de Gare of 40 and 8 Voiture 333, the fun organization of the Legion. He has been a member of the Legion since it was founded in France 35 years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Brill reside at 505 East Tenth.

KC Cracks-Down On Sale, Use Of Fireworks

KANSAS CITY, June 27—(AP)—Two deaths in a fireworks explosion spurred police today into the most drastic enforcement ever attempted against violators of the city's fireworks ordinance.

Police Chief Bernard C. Brannon named a 16-man squad to arrest persons entering the city with illegal fireworks purchased at stands just outside the city limits. They will go into action Monday.

Two teen-aged girls lost their lives yesterday when a fireworks display in a drug store where they were employed was touched off.

The city's ordinance prohibits the sale and use of pyrotechnics except sparklers, flower pots, parade torches and cap pistols.

Officials of the drug store in which Friday's blast took place said the fireworks for sale at the place were all within the law.

Chief Brannon warned motorists to think twice before buying fireworks at county stands and bringing them into the city. He cited the ordinance's provisions calling for a $500 fine for violations.

The Weather

Partly cloudy Sunday with scattered thundershowers northeast and east central, cooler except extreme south; Monday partly cloudy; scattered thundershowers north late Sunday night and mostly west and north Monday, high Sunday around 80 extreme north, 95-98 extreme south.

Farm High Command May Be Split Wide Open in the Months Ahead

Three Men Hold Administration's Key Positions

(Editor's Note: A churchman and two politicians make up the high command in the administration's battle to work out a new farm program for American agriculture. In this third article of four, two AP reporters predict the generals may reach a parting of the ways in the months ahead.)

By OVID MARTIN and DON WHITEHEAD

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three men—a churchman and two politicians—hold the key positions today in the administration fight to carry out President Eisenhower's campaign promise of a new farm program for American agriculture. But this high command may be split wide open in the months ahead.

The churchman is Ezra Taft Benson, secretary of agriculture and long-time leader in the Mormon church. The politicians are Sen. George Aiken (R-Vt), chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee.

These three are, in effect, the ranking Republican generals in the farm world's civil war—a conflict centering around the administration's ideas on the best way to increase and stabilize farm income.

Their strategy and leadership will determine in large measure the kind of program Congress will adopt when the present law requiring fixed high support prices for basic crops expires next year. The basics are wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco, rice and peanuts.

But in the showdown fight, Eisenhower may find one of his generals at odds with the other two. And here's why:

Benson and Aiken are in strong agreement that the fixed high support price program developed under the Truman administration should be changed to a program of flexible price supports. But Hope—who comes from a wheat state—is waving a "go slow" signal.

Where Benson and Aiken are highly critical of the present high-level supports, Hope thinks this program has worked well and that support programs should be extended where possible to other crops.

As yet, Benson and his aides have developed no specific recommendations on a new program, and none are likely before fall.

But Benson has outlined a fairly clear picture of the direction in which he wants to go and there is every indication he has the full support of President Eisenhower.

On price supports, he said recently:

"I doubt very much if any government can, by high, rigid supports, prevent some adjustment in prices, unless we step from one commodity to the next and then to the next, until finally we have control of all of them. When we have that, we will practically have state socialism, and I do not believe that farmers want that any more than you do or I do."

Benson believes high price supports tend to "freeze" crop production. In other words, if a farmer is guaranteed a profitable return for growing corn, then there isn't much reason for him to shift to a more-needed but less profitable crop even though corn surpluses do pile up in storage as is now the case.

Benson also thinks the fixed high supports tend to price a commodity out of the market in domestic and world competition.

The secretary says that as long as prices are supported at high levels, there is no pressure on farmers to increase efficiency and lower production costs by using better seed varieties and farming practices in order to be in a better position to compete in home and overseas markets.

In other words, he says, high supports subsidize inefficiency.

As a farmer, Benson never accepted a government subsidy payment himself. But he says there should be some price support structure to protect the farmer from economic disasters such as they experienced 20 years ago.

Judging from Benson's speeches, policy statements, interviews, and testimony before congressional groups, he favors in general a program that runs in this direction:

1. Flexible price supports ranging from 75 to 90 per cent of parity. Parity is a return estimated to be fair to both the farmer and the consumer. Under this flexibility, supports could be lowered to discourage overproduction, or raised to encourage shifts to needed crops.

2. A greater voice for farmers and commodity groups in drafting programs to fit their particular needs. This would mean, Benson says, decentralizing federal control with emphasis on controls at the state and county level.

3. Expanded efforts through private enterprise and government to build up foreign markets which have been sagging badly in the past year. This would call for expanded sales efforts and efforts to remove trade barriers at home and abroad.

4. Shifting to the Agriculture Department some of the authority and responsibility now held by the State Department in the field of foreign trade policies.

6. A concentrated effort by government, farmers and food handlers to find ways to cut marketing costs. Costs have risen sharply in recent years and cut deeply into the farmer's share of the consumer dollar spent for food.

7. The possible wider use of marketing agreements, price insurance and a two-price system for exports. The two-price system would mean one price at home and a world price that would seek its competitive level in foreign markets.

Aiken stands close to Benson in the fight and the senator says farm sentiment is swinging toward the adminstration view.

He insists the administration is not going to abandon any part of the present farm program "until we find something better." But he is confident something better can be found.

Benson, in recent speeches and statements also has promised that he will seek no changes in the present program until something is found that will "do better" by farmers.

Aiken was asked why it was he and other administration leaders favor a flexible price support plan now when the flexible plan of the 1930s wasn't considered a success.

"In those days," he said, "price supports were fixed at 50 to 75 per cent of parity. But this support couldn't be given until prices dropped to a trouble point. The program was designed to get us out of trouble, rather than to keep out of trouble."

He added that supports in the '30s were held to less than 60 per cent of parity and were kept close to the minimum allowed by law.

As a result, he said, Congress began thinking in terms of a program "that would keep us out of trouble" and he added that is the thinking that will prevail in any new program that is developed.

Aiken argues that any program must be constantly changing to meet new conditions.

"If you should write a law and say you will guarantee farmers 90 to 100 per cent of parity, you'll have to break the law sooner or later," he said. "But this administration is dedicated to a prosperous agriculture, and we'll use whatever means it takes, if it's support at 90 per cent or whatever is needed."

Over on the House side, Hope takes a more cautious attitude than Aiken toward change in the present farm program and he believes the mood of Congress right now is "don't move too fast" toward change.

Hope certainly isn't the outspoken supporter of the Eisenhower-Benson ideas that Aiken has been. And it is known he is not convinced a flexible support system for basic crops would bring about the desired shifts in production—unless the incentive to farmers was a support price higher than 90 per cent of parity.

In one of his farm-state speeches Hope made this point: "I believe that during 1953-54 Congress should restudy all of our price support programs with a view of making those which are now in operation more effective if possible, and of extending them where possible to other commodities.

"In saying this I want to make it perfectly clear that I do not think we should give up any program which is working at least reasonably well until we are sure we have something better to take its place."

Later this summer, Hope will head a group from the House Agriculture Committee which will visit the farm regions to get first-hand views from farmers.

In all this battle, the weather and the still-silent voice of the general public are factors which could scramble the best-laid plans. Both are unpredictable.

Tomorrow: Two unpredictables—the weather and public opinion—may prove to be decisive factors in the farm world's civil war.

● This advertisement is the third in a special series which began over a year ago, and which is designed to give you, as a prospective buyer, detailed and helpful information. We'd be happy to have your comments about this type of advertising.

This is the 1953 Chevrolet Bel Air 4-Door Sedan. It's one of 16 Chevrolet models in 3 series, which add up to the widest choice in the low-price field.

Some Chevrolet advantages worth considering when you're ready to choose a car . . .

Next to a new house, a car is probably your most important purchase. Here are some facts to help you make up your mind about which make to buy.

Don't you agree that it's well worthwhile to weigh all the factors carefully before you buy any new car? Let's consider the major reasons why people choose one make over another and see how the 1953 Chevrolet stands in those respects.

Styling You Can Stay Proud Of

Styling, of course, is a matter of personal taste. Because we think Chevrolet is the best-looking car in its field, doesn't necessarily mean you'll think so, too. But we can tell you that the majority of our showroom visitors prefer Chevrolet styling and compare its appearance most favorably with cars costing a great deal more.

And you might consider this: Chevrolet styling is the newest in its field. It's the kind of styling that stays new, too. For it is based, not on fads or extremes, but on the fundamentals of good, modern design.

The One Automobile Body Almost Everybody Knows

It's not really surprising that so many people prefer Chevrolet's appearance. For Chevrolet is the only low-priced car with Body by Fisher. And Fisher, as you know, is the only automobile body manufacturer with a world-wide reputation for styling, craftsmanship and quality.

The Many Benefits of High-Compression Power

When you drive a new Chevrolet (and we hope you'll do that soon), you'll notice these things: faster acceleration from a standing start; greater passing ability in traffic and on the highway; the new ease with which you climb steep hills.

These are just some of the benefits of Chevrolet's new high-compression power. In gearshift models, there is an advanced 108-h.p. "Thrift-King" engine with a 7.1 to 1 compression ratio. Teamed with the new Powerglide automatic transmission* is an entirely new 115-h.p. "Blue-Flame" engine with 7.5 to 1 compression ratio. It is the most powerful engine in Chevrolet's field.

A Great Gain in Gasoline Economy

Along with remarkable new performance, Chevrolet's advanced engines give you far greater gasoline mileage. In fact, this year marks the most important gain in economy in Chevrolet history. And that includes substantial savings on over-all upkeep, as well as on gasoline.

New Getaway in the New Powerglide*

The new Powerglide automatically drops into "Low" range for starting and for passing in city traffic. Then, as you glide along, it slips smoothly and almost imperceptibly into cruising range. The results are much faster and more positive acceleration, and much lower fuel consumption.

The First Power Steering in a Low-Priced Car

This year's Chevrolet is the only car in its field to offer you the extra ease and convenience of Power Steering, optional at extra cost. With it, you can spin the wheel with the strength of one finger. You can seesaw in and out of tight parking places without the slightest strain. You get an additional cushion against road shocks and jars. Driving is easier, safer.

A Smoother and a Safer Ride

Chevrolet is the heaviest low-priced car. Model for model, a Chevrolet will weigh as much as 200 pounds more than the other makes. You often hear people say they buy high-priced cars because they're heavier, hold the road better and ride better. Well, isn't it logical, then, that Chevrolet's extra weight (which comes from extra strength of body and frame) would result in a better ride?

Chevrolet is the Lowest-Priced Line

Certainly, price is one of the most important factors of all. We're glad to be able to tell you that Chevrolet is the lowest-priced line in its field.

Now, you might well ask, "How can Chevrolet offer me more and still cost less?" There is a simple, logical answer to that.

Remember that Chevrolet builds more cars than any other manufacturer. Chevrolet, along with General Motors, has greater facilities for research, for engineering and production. So, isn't it reasonable that these greater facilities bring manufacturing advantages and economies which Chevrolet can pass on to you in terms of higher quality at lower price?

An Endorsement Given No Other Car

Again this year, more people are buying Chevrolets than any other car. Obviously that wouldn't be true unless people liked Chevrolet better. Unless Chevrolet offered more things people want—more value.

So, when you're ready to choose your new car, wouldn't you agree that Chevrolet merits your careful consideration? We welcome your visit at any time, so that you can look the car over yourself and try it out on the road.

*Combination of 115-h.p. "Blue-Flame" engine and Powerglide automatic transmission optional on "Two-Ten" and Bel Air models at extra cost.

MORE PEOPLE BUY CHEVROLETS THAN ANY OTHER CAR!

Ike Reassures Prime Minister Churchill Of Big 3 Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today expressed distress over Prime Minister Churchill's inability to go to Bermuda because of his health, but said he looked upon this "only as a temporary deferment" of the Big-Three meeting there.

The White House released the following message addressed to "Dear Winston" as announcement was made in London that Churchill had been ordered to take "a complete rest."

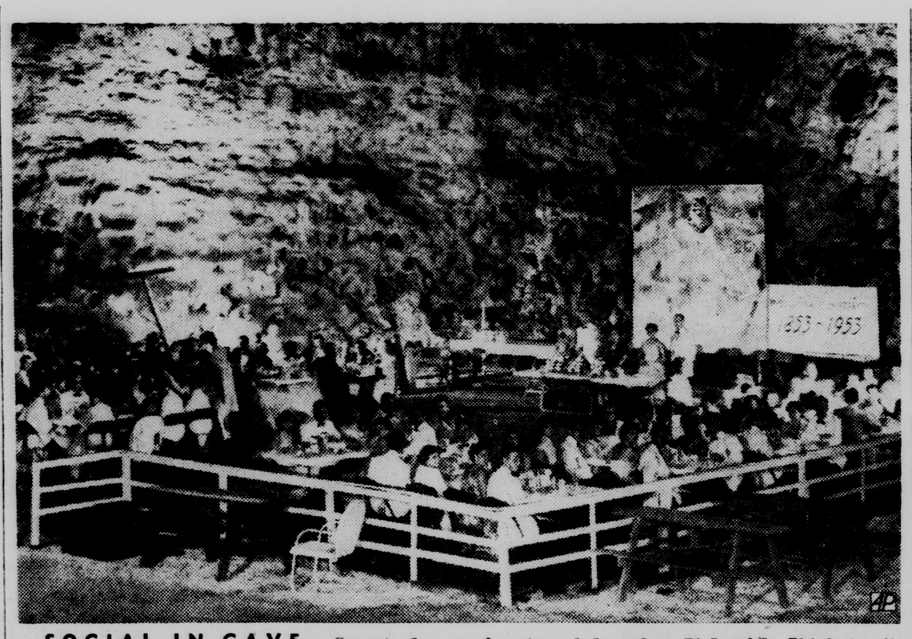

"I am deeply distressed to learn that your physicians have advised you to lighten your duties at this time and that consequently you will be unable to come to Bermuda for our talks.

"I look upon this only as a temporary deferment of our meeting. Your health is of great concern to all the world and you must, therefore, bow to the advice of your physicians.

"With best wishes from your friend, Ike."

West Germany Now Boosts European Army As Result of Red East Berlin Brutality

EDITOR'S NOTE: Leon Dennen, roving correspondent for NEA Service and The Democrat - Capital flew to Germany to get the story behind the East German riots. His dicpatch below is based on familiar news sources at Bonn, the West German capital.

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

BONN, Germany—(NEA)—The West German parliament is now leading the campaign for speedy ratification of the European Army Treaty by six signatory states.

That is the principal immediate reaction to the brutal Russian suppression of the East German demonstrations.

Even the powerful Social Democrat opposition to Chancellor Conard Adenauer, while still opposed in principle to the European community, is veering to the view that only a well-armed Western world can resist Russian aggression.

Willi Richter, a prominent Bundestag member, told me.

"Willi Goettling, executed by the Russians after a travesty of justice, and the East Berlin dead and wounded now stand between us and Moscow."

* * *

He said the Germans would be impressed now by nothing less than the complete removal of Soviet troops from German soil and the unification of the country on the basis of free, internationally- supervised elections.

Anything less, he said, will convince Germans that the Moscow peace offensive is nothing but a scheme to divide the Western powers.

In general, opinion here is that the Kremlin has lost in East Germany an important round in the East-West struggle for Germany. Some compare the East Berlin events to the Kronstadt revolt of Russian sailors in 1920 which nearly led to the downfall of the Lenin regime in Russia.

* * *

Reports to official agencies here say that outwardly calm was restored quite swiftly to East Berlin under the guns of Russian troops and tanks.

But members of the Bundestag said their private advices were that the whole East Zone was like a seething valcano. Sporadic clashes between unarmed workers and the Red Army continued in Bradenburg, Magdeburg, Halle, Erfurt, Leipzing, Dresden and Rostock long after East Berlin had been quieted.

One report said that Lavrenti Beria himself had arrived in Berlin to conduct a post-mortem on the riots. Walter Ulbright, once Stalin's most trusted agent in Germany, reportedly was removed from his post as deputy prime minister.

* * *

The heads of other top Reds in East Germany were likely to roll soon.

Fritz Heine, Social Democrat leader, forecast that the Cominform would move at once to stir strikes and riots in West Germany to divert attention from the East German situation and create the impression that all the zones of Germany were in revolt.

Authorities here saw the East German riots as a major propaganda defeat for the Russians. For more than 30 years they have represented strikes and riots as a protest of the workers against capitalism.

But in Berlin construction workers and engineering operators demonstrated openly against communism, showing up the hatred of Red rule and the puppet East German police.

France Is Expensive

PARIS — (AP) — France is one of the most expensive countries in the world, and here, from the newspaper, Le Figaro, are some examples of why:

Unloading of a cargo of coal from a 7,500-ton ship costs $1,000 in Holland, $1,700 in Belgium and $3,200 in France. Automobile shock-absorbers cost 600 francs in England and 1,300 in France.

It takes 59 hours to make and assemble an English tractor and the same process in France takes 136 hours. Raw sulphur costs 13,000 francs in Britain and 26,000 in France. Nickel costs 375 francs in Canada, 450 in Germany and Britain, and 775 per kilogram in France.

Three Area Men Will Take Part In Navy Cruise

Scheduled to participate in a two-month training cruise aboard a ship of the U. S. Navy's 1953 Midshipman Practice Squardon are Midshipman third class William A. Schlapper, USNR, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. Schlapper, Concordia; Midshipman first class Marvin F. Hanigan, USNR, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Hanigan of 505 East Fourth, Sedalia, and Midshipman third class Leo J. Koerkenmeier, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Koerkenmeier, Tipton.

The annual practice cruise, designed to give Naval Academy and NROTC midshipmen an opportunity to "learn by doing" aboard combat ships of the Atlantic Fleet, will be made by some 1,466 seniors and sophomores of 25 colleges and universities, as well as by the first and third classmen from the Naval Academy.

This year, more than 30 ships, including the battleships USS Missouri and Wisconsin and the light aircraft carrier Saipan, will carry some 3,200 trainees to nine ports in South America and the Caribbean. They left Norfolk, Va. June 8th.

The ports to be visited are: Rio de Janeiro and Santos, Brazil; Cartagena and Barranquilla, Columbia; Trinidad and Barbados, B. W. I., Willemstad, N. W. I.; Colon, Panama; and Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. Each ship will stop at two of these ports and Guantanamo Bay. The midshipmen will be granted shore leave at the first port, in Brazil, from June 27th to July 5th, and at a Caribbean port July 22-25. The squadron, under the command of Rear Admiral E. T. Woolridge, USN, Commander Battleship Cruiser Force, Atlantic, flying his flag in the Missouri, returns to Norfolk Aug. 5th.

Ike Takes Brief Rest at Mountain

THRMONT, Md. (AP) — President Eisenhower relaxed at his cabin retreat in the Catoctin Mountains today but kept in close touch with the situation in Korea.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower drove from Washington late yesterday to spend a quiet weekend at Camp David, 60 miles northwest of the Capital.

White House communications kept the President posted on the efforts of his envoy, Assistant Secretary of State Walter S. Robertson, to win South Korean President Syngman Rhee's support of the proposed armistice. But newsmen covering the presidential party were unable to find out anything about the nature of the reports received.

The presidential vacation cabin in Catoctin National Park is named for the President's grandson. Eisenhower's middle name is David, also. When former Presidents Harry S. Truman and Franklin D. Roosevelt used the camp, it was called Shangri-La.

There were reports Eisenhower might try his luck at trout fishing.

The President plans to return to the White House Sunday afternoon.

Ann Blyth Weds James McNulty, Hollywood Doctor

By BOB THOMAS

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif., June 27 (AP)—Ann Blyth married Dr. James McNulty today in a solemn ceremony conducted by Cardinal McIntyre and blessed by Pope Pius XII.

The bride, demure and beautiful in a flowing white gown, recited her marriage vows in a low but firm voice. When her marriage to the handsome young obstetrician was consecrated, Cardinal McIntyre addressed them and the 500 guests:

"I have a letter from the apostolic delegate in Washington which conveys the special blessing from our holy father. The Pope sends his special apostolic benediction of eternal affection to Dr. and Mrs. McNulty and their families and friends gathered here. He sends his personal congratulations and best wishes."

The ceremony, Hollywood's biggest wedding in years, went off flawlessly. The bride and bridegroom were conducted by the cardinal and her pastor, the Rev. Harry Mead, through the hour-long ceremony of the Roman Catholic Church.

According to tradition, they did not kiss at the altar, but obliged later for photographers and the clamoring crowd of 2,000 who lined the sunny San Fernando street outside St. Charles Church.

The couple posed on the steps with Cardinal McIntyre and the wedding party, which included best man Singer Dennis Day, the bridegroom's brother, and bridesmaids Joan Leslie, Jane Withers and Betty Lynn.

10 Firms Seek Passer Of $383 In Bad Checks

Ten firms in Knob Noster were in possession of $383 in bad checks Saturday night allegedly passed Friday by Danny O'Connor, who disappeared shortly thereafter.

The checks, which range in value from $20 to $75, reportedly were cashed after the Knob Noster bank closed; O'Connor had withdrawn his money from the bank earlier Friday.

O'Connor, who has been in Knob Noster since last Christmas, worked for two months for one construction firm there and the rest of the time for another.

Investigating the case are Alex Nicholas, sheriff of Johnson County; S. S. Abney of the Missouri Highway Patrol; and T. E. Beatty, Knob Noster city marshal.

New State Park Opens July 1 At Kirksville

KIRKSVILLE—Seven hundred acres of new fishing water will open to Missouri anglers July 1, when the new Thousand Hills State Park opens for the first time. Bass, bluegill and channel catfish will be on the fishing bill of fare.

No swimming will be allowed this year, but picnicking, boating and fishing are offered. Statewide fishing regulations will apply this summer, according to State Park Board officials.

The park covers 2,700 acres and is built around the 700-acre lake forming a reservoir for Kirksville's water system. No facilities of an elaborate nature have been erected yet, but temporary boat docks, a picnic area, tables and fireplaces are to be put in this summer.

Cards Sign Dorman In Reorganization

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals have signed Fred (Dutch) Dorman of York, Pa., a veteran of 32 years in baseball, as their first new scout under the reorganization plan for the club's minor league system.

Joe Mathes, Cardinal minor league club director, said Dorman will work out of the St. Louis office on assignments.

Store Cave-Ins Hurt Eight At Rich Hill

RICH HILL, Mo., June 26—(AP)—Two store buildings collapsed here today. Eight persons in the structures escaped with only bruises and scratches.

The cause of the collapse of the 2-story buildings was not determined immediately.

They were occupied by the K. K. Engels Dry Goods store and the Freeland Paint and Wallpaper store.

Two women in a second-floor beauty shop plummeted to the street level when the floor fell under them.

Gasoline Blast Kills Springfield, Mo. Woman

NEEDLES, Calif., June 26—(AP) Miss Mary Keeton, 22, of Springfield, Mo., died today from burns suffered yesterday in a gasoline tank explosion in a Needles garage.

Mrs. Opal F. Pope, 21, of Kansas City, is in serious condition from burns, and her husband, Leonard, 22, was slightly burned in the accident.

Police Chief Frank Bland said one of the women lit a cigaret just as gas fumes were blown from a truck gasoline tank under repair. A garage employee rolled both women in blankets to extinguish the flames.

It requires an investment of about $8,000 to create a job in a manufacturing plant.

The Postwar Patent Life In U. S. Is All Chemical

PATENTS YOU NEVER SEE go into this 9,000-gallon fermentator tank of aureomycin mold in the form of chemicals. Wonder drugs are one of the thousands of postwar chemical patents.

By Douglas Larsen
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — America has been making itself a new chemical way of life since the war.

But in the field of buttons, wooden barrels, needles and pins, buggy whips and pneumatic conveyor tubes the nation is standing stock still.

This reflection of the direction which US living has taken in the last seven years comes from a study of patent trends just made by the United States Patent Office.

Out of 188,523 patents granted since 1946, there have been 35,772 in the field of chemistry. Next are patents granted in electronics engineering, with a few more than 10,000; machine tools, with a few less than 10,000; automotive engineering with approximately 9,000; and textile manufacturing, with about 8,000.

The list of new products which comes from these post-war chemical patents is almost endless. They include thousands of new platic articles, new medicines and wonder drugs, fertilizers and insecticides, new synthetic fabrics and great numbers of industrial chemicals not commonly known, but used in numerous manufacturing processes.

There's not much agreement within the chemical trade as to just what basic post-war chemical patents are the most important. Some of the recent patents cover the new chemicals themselves. But many of the key patents have to do with processes for making chemicals. Most of the details on this subject are kept hidden as trade secrets.

Some industrial chemists claim that the patents on fluid catalysts which permit the extraction of a whole family of other chemicals from crude petroleum — used mostly for manufacturing processes — are the most important.

It is estimated that crude oil and natural gas now are the source of more than 25,000 different chemicals.

In the "wonder drug" category Patent Office officials claim that it is difficult to pinpoint specific patents as the most important. For instance, the basic patent on penicillin dates back to 1938. But it has turned out to be virtually invalid because it failed to make an exact identification of the substance.

The most important patents in the antibiotic drug field granted since the war stem from the discoveries of chloramphenicol, aureomycin and terramycin. Hundreds of patents having to do with the manufacture of these substances and related medical products have been granted in the last seven years.

Tracer chemistry, as a research tool using radioactive materials supplied by the Atomic Energy Commission, has figured prominently in the discovery and isolation of almost all of the important new post-war chemicals. In this respect it is claimed that contsructive effects of the discovery of the atomic bomb threatens to overshadow its destructive effects.

Also in this connection the Patent Office report states:

"Patents granted in organic chemicals in the past seven years (17,685) will some time during the year exceed the number of patents heretofore issued for weapons and explosive devices during the entire 127-year history of the government's patent granting program."

As might be expected, the bulk of the newer patents in the electronics field have to do with various phases of television and radio. Although automotive patents are fourth in the number of those granted since the war, the Patent Office points out that since long before the war this field has been one of the most consistent producers of new ideas, devices and manufacturing processes.

The Patent Office finds that there are several fields in which patent applications are shrinking fast. These include road construction and road machinery, ammunition, bottles and jars and aircraft. Many of the patents included in the electronics category are actually for use in aircraft, however.

An expert Washington patent attorney says that he sees no change in the trend of increased applications in the chemical field. He points out that the ones coming in are actually opening up many new areas in the general field for discovery and invention.

Disease In The Dust

TEMPLE, Tex. (AP) — Huge clouds of dust raised by maneuvering Army tanks may be responsible for the prevalence of two lung diseases in the Fort Hood area.

The diseases are coccidioidomycosis and histoplasmois, fungus diseases of the lungs sometimes mistaken for tuberculosis.

U. S. Public Health Service officers and members of the Bell County Health Unit staff are testing school children in the Fort Hood area for presence of the diseases. The State Health department and Bell County Tuberculosis Association are cooperating.

"The fungae (causing the disease) are soil-born organisms," Dr. Harry Frey explained, "and the huge dust clouds caused by tank maneuvers can reasonably be expected to drift over the area, bearing the disease."

Chinese Oil Claims

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — The Chinese Communists say they now have an "abundance" of petroleum in China, but give no production totals. The Peiping radio, in a broadcast heard by The Associated Press in San Francisco, said the present output of crude oil was 12 per cent above the highest pre-war levels; gasoline was up 231 per cent and kerosene 687 per cent.

The figures, however, meant little because China's pre-war petroleum output was limited mainly to Kansu province and production there was not large. (Only 18 wells were reported in operation in 1944, no production figures were given, because of the war with Japan.)

2 Cabs Collide Here On Friday; One Driver Hurt

Two taxi cabs collided at 11th and Sneed intersection at 6:40 p. m. Monday. One was demolished and the other badly damaged, and one driver went to Bothwell Hospital with painful injuries. The accident occurred about 6:40 p.m. Friday.

Jack Lewis, 32, 805 West Main driver of a Yellow Cab, was sent to the hospital in Ewing's ambulance with a severe abrasion on his right portion of his forehead, a slight contussion of the right side of his head and a wrenched neck. Lewis was treated by Dr. Karl Gonser, who kept him in the hospital for further observation.

Clarence Keele, 29, 1208 South Harrison, driver of a City Cab, escaped injury. His cab did not overturn.

The accident occurred as Lewis, driving a 1950 Ford sedan, was headed east on 11th while Keele, driving a 1959 Plymouth sedan, was headed south on Sneed. The Ford skidded sideways and rolled over on its top landing in a ditch at the southeast corner of the intersection.

The body of the Ford was demolished, while the front end of the Plymouth was badly damaged.

Residents residing within three blocks of the accident heard the crash and came to the scene.

Neither cab had a passenger, both enroute to answer calls. Lewis was enroute to an address on Stewart and Keele was headed for 1455 South Sneed.

The West Sedalia fire truck was called and washed gasoline which spilled from the broken tank on the Ford down into ditches.

Police made an investigation.

Baseball's greatest acrobatic show in the person of Jackie Price (above) will make a return appearance by popular demand at Busch Stadium, Sunday afternoon, July 5th, between games of the doubleheader between the St. Louis Browns and the Detroit Tigers. Price gave a sensational performance at a Browns' game last summer, but this will be his first Sunday appearance in St. Louis. Price's amazing trick-shot feats from his Jeep and at home plate will be the feature of the Browns' big week-end when they return home to play four games for the price of two on the holiday weekend. The Browns face the Chicago White Sox in a July 4th doubleheader on Saturday; then meet the Tigers in another twin bill on Sunday, July 5th, with Price as an added attraction.

Car Hits Light Pole Here Saturday Morn; Three Slightly Hurt

Three Sedalians were injured slightly about 12:15 a. m. Saturday when the 1952 Chevrolet Bellaire in which they were riding crashed into a light pole at Broadway and Thompson.

Miss Edna Kabler, 21, 805 North Missouri, suffered a severe laceration on the top of her head from the hairline over the right eye back to the crown of her head. It was necessary to take several stitches to close the wound.

Miss Betty Morris, 21, 320 East Fourth, received a painful injury to her nose and mouth, skinned left elbow and knees.

Loren E. Williams, 31, 705 East 11th, driver of the automobile received a broken nose, laceration on the nose, and a wrenched neck.

McLaughlin's and Ewing's ambulances took the injured to the hospital, where Dr. A. L. Walter rendered medical treatment. The three were later dismissed from the hospital.

Broadway narrows-down at the Thompson avenue intersection. A light pole is at the curb, and it was this pole that was hit. The pole was knocked loose in the ground and snapped about ten feet in the air.

Williams reported he was headed east when a car crowded him as they approached the narrowness of the street and forced him into the light pole. The other car did not stop.

Police made an investigation.

Growing Deer Herd

PHOENIX, Ariz. — (AP) — The Arizona Game and Fish Commission believes the deer herd in the Kaibab National Forest at the Grand Canyon is the fastest growing herd in the country.

In 1950 the kill by licensed hunters was 2,858. In 1951 it was 2,515 and last year it was 4,312, but even so the deer have multiplied faster than the rising kill, a joint report of the commission ond the U. S. Forest Service shows.

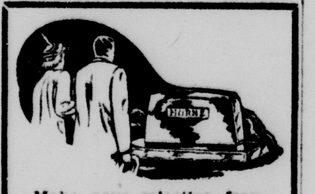

More than half of all presidents of the United States have been college graduates.

Maimonides Honored

JERUSALEM — (AP) — Scholars here are preparing for next year's 750th anniversary of the death of the great Jewish writer, physician and religious philosopher Maimonides (Ramban) who spent a considerable part of his life in Egypt but is buried in Tiberias on the shores of the Sea of Galilee. Not far from his tomb, venerated by Orthodox Jews as a holy place, a special monument is to be erected.

In Jerusalem, a group of Hebrew University scholars are planning to re-edit Maimonides' religious writings while Dr. Suessman Muntner, a physician and expert on the history of Jewish medicine, is continuing the publication of Maimonides' famous medical manuscripts. Muntner, until now has re-published (and commented) his books on asthma, poisons and on Hippocrates.

Another book by Maimonides has been rediscovered and edited by the Jerusalem Orientalist Prof. Gotthold Weil, former director of the Hebrew National and University Library, deals with the span of human life.

Truman Calls Rhee 'Patriot,' Declines To Comment on Truce

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Truman said today of Syngman Rhee, the South Korean president, "I like the old man; he's a patriot."

Truman declined to comment directly concerning the Korean truce situation in talking with newsmen on his arrival here by train from Philadelphia.

Rhee has objected to truce terms that would leave Korea divided, has freed anti-Communist North Korean prisoners and has vowed he will fight to the end.

Truman made his comment on Rhee when asked whether he ever had any dealings with him. He said he had had dealings with Rhee, but did not elaborate.

Concerning the Korean truce situation specifically, Truman said: "I can't make any comment on that; I don't know the facts."

Truman arrived here to visit his daughter, Margaret.

The diesel locomotive of the passenger train and several of the cars left the rails, Dodge said, and the locomotive overturned in a ditch. The passengers cars remained upright.

Santee Smiles at News Of Bannister's Mile

DAYTON, O. (AP)—Wes Santee, the Kansas galloper who is figured most likely to run the magic four-minute mile, smiled when he heard about Roger Bannister's 4:02 paced mile at London.

"More power to him," he said.

But, he admitted he didn't think a paced mile was any legitimate test. "An arrangement like that isn't right. For instance, if I took out after an electric rabbit, I might be able to run the four mile," he laughed.

"To get a legitimate record you should be able to pace yourself."

Ducklings Go for Walk On Rooftop, Rescue Themselves Neatly

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP)—Eight ducklings and their mother stopped traffic in Copenhagen this morning, baffled police and firemen trying to rescue them from a roof and finally rescued themselves.

Each time the would-be rescuers put a ladder to the roof, the mother led her brood in a dizzying walk along the rain gutter. Finally, the mother walked over an outlet. The eight ducklings, faithfully following her, plopped down the pipe, zip, zip, zip, one after another.

When mama saw them all lined up on the street, she flew down to join them.

The first practical typewriter was placed on the market in 1874.

Here Is How Fireworks Toll Was Decreased

CHICAGO, (AP)—By the end of the Fourth of July holiday next Sunday night, there will be many more dead and maimed by automobiles than by fireworks.

So this seems a good time to pose a question:

How was the holiday's annual fireworks death toll reduced from 466 to 2 in 50 years?

It's an achievement that becomes monumental when you compare it with efforts to bring the new mass killer, the mortor vehicle accident, under control.

Look, for contrast, at the grim record of July 4 traffic deaths. They hit a peak of 491 in 1951. Last year there were 366.

The steady reduction in fireworks fatalities was brought about by shock, education, law and changing custom.

The American Medical Association provided mass shock treatments in the form of reports on the Independence Day carnage. The AMA report for 1903, for example, was 466 dead and 3,983 injured.

History was taking an ironic twist. More lives were being lost in celebrating freedom than in winning it.

Early in the 1900s newspapers and many aroused citizens spoke out for a "safe and sane" celebration. The National Safety Council and other organizations joined in the public education campaign. Thoughtful parents indoctrinated their youngsters at home.

Many cities adopted curbs on fireworks. These were good as far as they went but they went only as far as the city limits.

The most effective legal action has been taken by states. Laws prohibiting the sale and use of fireworks except in authorized public displays have been enacted in 27 states—26 of them in the last 16 years.

The results of these safe-and-sane movements can be traced in the AMA count of the Independence holiday fireworks deaths. They slumped from 466 in 1903 to 215 in 1909, to 30 in 1915, to 18 in 1938, to 6 in 1946, to 2 in 1952.

Maybe you live in a state with a control law and you were jarred awake on the morning of last July 4 by blasts and crackes. Those were firecrackers all right.

Nobody concerned with the problem knows how many tons of them are set off in areas where legal bars have been raised against them.

But the National Fire Protection Association, a prime mover in the state control-by-law field, provides this information on the bootleg trade:

"Such fireworks are sold by mail order in response to comic book and magazine adveritsing. Shipment is made by Railway Express or motor carrier.

"Fireworks also are sold from roadside stands set up in areas outside the jurisdiction of state fireworks laws or city ordinances, and goods purchased are smuggled home by the purchaser."

The association says a resolution now pending in Congress, would "put an end to these practices." Rep. Marguerite Stitt Church (R-Ill) has introduced a bill in Congress to ban the shipment of fireworks into states where their sale is prohibited.

Another factor in the slump in fireworks deaths is a change in the pattern of holiday living. In the horse-and-buggy era folks were wont to stay close to home and amuse themselves with firecrackers, powder and dynamite.

Americans of the automobile age prefer to go places and to take their chances on the road.

Sees Fewer Mental Patients In Korean War Than In WWII

By WILLIAM J. WAUGH

Aboard U. S. Navy Hospital Ship Haven, Korea (AP)—A veteran Navy doctor says he has seen far fewer military mental patients in Korea than he did in World War II.

"I believe it is largely due to rotation," said Lt. Carl Celestre, who was practicing in San Francisco when he was recalled to duty. He added:

"In World War II there seemed to be no end in sight and the men didn't know when they would have a chance to go home. If you give the American fighting man a certain goal and he knows that he will have a chance to see home again he can adjust himself mentally. In psychological cases."

Celestre is a veteran of several World War II landings in the Pacific. That fighting was brutal but the San Francisco doctor said he believed he saw "more consistently devastating cases" in the Korea fighting.

"They ought to outlaw the mortar," the doctor said. "It tears and maims flesh in the most horrible fashion.

"I've never gotten used to it—and I hope I never do. Some cases are so horrible you have to choke down nausea before you begin work."

Celestre and 21 other reserve doctors on the Haven volunteered to go back into the service when the Navy called for medical men.

"I don't believe there is a man among us that regrets his decision," said Lt. Andrew Conzonetti, a New Britian, Conn., surgeon.

In addition to the Navy Reserve doctors there are five regular Navy physicians in the medical unit headed by Capt. John R. Weisser, chief surgeon, and Capt. Perry Harris, ear, nose and throat specialist.

The bulk of the hospital ship patients are U. S. and South Korean Marines. When the fighting was tough the ship's three operating rooms were busy 24 hours a day.

Probably the Marines staunchest supporters are the doctors and nurses of the hospital ship. One nurse said:

There's nobody like them. There's not a more wholesome group in the world."

She said that the Marines always are trying to help each other.

"One will get a little better—he'll be able to move about," the nurse explained. "Then he'll start helping his buddy doing little things like getting water. They don't want to bother the nurses."

Many battlefield casualties don't remember how they arrived on the hospital ship. The seriously wounded are flown by helicopter. The fastest evacuation for the Haven was a wounded Marine who reached the ship 23 minutes after being hit.

Only a fraction of 1 per cent of those who reach a hospital ship fail to survive. The fighting men seem to realize this.

"When they get here they figure they will live," said Lt. Conzonetti. "It's when they realize that they are here that they completely relax."

Notes From Public Library—

Beat the Heat With a Good Book; New Titles on Shelves

"Beat the heat with a good book," is the advice of the Sedalia Public Library, and to be sure that there are plenty of books for every taste, many new titles are being added to the shelves every week.

"The Silent World," a story of undersea discovery and adventure by the first men to swim at record depths with the freedom of fish, is one that will probably join Rachel Carson's "The Sea Around Us," on the best-seller list. It is by Captain J. Y. Cousteau and Frederic Dumas, known as "the first of the men-fish," who have explored the seas and oceans for ten years with the aqualung, of which Cousteau was the co-inventor. Their book is a brilliant account of a new kind of deep-sea diving, unhampered by cumbersome diving suits and trailing, dangerous air-lines to the surface. Swimming in the deep twilight zone, they encounter sharks, mantas, morays, whales and octopi. They tell of exploring sunken ships, some torpedoed in World War II, and one that sank in 80 B.C., and of the treasures they brought up.

Lionel Barrymore, the actor, is represented by his first novel, "Mr. Cantonwine," the story of Martin J. Cantonwine, lay preacher, snake-oil peddler, a man of great strength and strange powers. Although the cast of characters includes two Indians, various mules, a surly black bear and a talkative raven, it manages also to include a love angle.

"Undercurrent," by Barbara Jefferis, is the story of Miss Doxy, a shy, retiring lady of good family, and the strange and haunting inner life she led. Mystery-detective story fans will also enjoy "Speak Justly of the Dead," by E. C. R. Lorac.

"The Southpaw," by Mark Harris, is a novel about baseball, and one of the most authentic and adult treatments of the sport ever attempted. It is baseball as it is to the man out on the field playing the game, not as it is to the fellow in the grandstand or in front of the television set. The book contains the most realistic descriptions of the game itself ever written and is tempered by a rich strain of humor that stems directly from Twain and Lardner. The hero, Henry Wiggen, who tells the story, is an extraordinary fellow who talks like Huck Finn, pitches like Lefty Grove and is a left-hander in a right - handed world.

The popular author, Nevil Shute's new book, "In the Wet," takes place in Australia in 1983, with Queen Elizabeth II as an aging monarch taking refuge from a Socialistic England in that dominion. From the time the reader meets Roger Hargreaves in the driving rain ("the wet," as the Australians call the rainy season) until the final chapter, he will watch new vistas opening up into the future.

Fans of Katherine Anne Porter will welcome a new collection of her essays, "The Days Before."

Senators Refuse To Post a Reward For Legislator

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Illinois state senators have refused to approve a $100,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of the kidnapers of State Rep. Clem Graver of Chicago.

Debate yesterday indicated they feared that a state reward might encourage kidnaping of other prominent persons.

The abduction of Graver from a garage near his Chicago home on June 11 has mystified police. They have uncovered no clues and Graver is presumed to be dead.

Both houses of the state Legislature have asked Gov. William G. Stratton to post a $25,000 reward. Stratton hasn't said what he will do.

Kirksville Asks CAA For Airplane Service

KIRKSVILLE (AP)—A petition to the Civil Aeronautic Board for air mail and plane service was signed yesterday by Mayor A. L. Bartlett.

The petition asks leave to intervene in the CAB hearing Aug. 17 in the Ozark Airlines certificate renewal case. The company, seeking recertification of its existing routes and additional ones, has been approached to extend service here.

Senate Confirms Lewis L. Strauss As AEC Chairman

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today confirmed Lewis L. Strauss, New York financier, as a member of the Atomic Energy Commission which he is to head as chairman.

Strauss, a former member of the commission, was named by President Eisenhower only Wednesday to a five-year term succeeding Chairman Gordon Dean. At the time the nomination was announced, the White House said Strauss would be designated as chairman of the commission.

Strauss' new term, starting next Wednesday, will continue through June, 1958. Dean has resigned, effective next Tuesday, June 30.

Strauss, a rear admiral in the U. S. naval reserve, was a member of the original Atomic Energy Commission, serving from its start until April 15, 1950, when he returned to private business.

Since last March he has been serving without pay as Eisenhower's personal advisor on atomic energy matters.

Ex-Circus Giant Settles Down To Family Life

CLEVELAND, Ohio, (AP)—Even if it means bumps on the head until he gets use to the doors in the house, Gilbert Reichert has become a family man. He says his days of traveling are over.

Reichert is 7 feet 6, tall enough to give him a circus job for 15 of his 40 years—with Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey and other shows—billed as "The Tallest Man on Exhibition." It also brought him work in the movie "Greatest Show on Earth."

But today he's settled down—happy to become a stay-at-home with his wife, three children and a job as counsellor for a shoe company. Of the carnivals, the 315-pound giant says:

"It's no life for a family man. It's too confining. People paid to see me so I couldn't go out for a walk when I wanted to."

He drives a car, plays golf with a special set of clubs, wears custum made size 20 shoes and has his clothes also tailored to fit.

Reichert comes from tall parents. His mother was 6 feet 3 and his father 6 feet 4. But his wife is 5 feet 2 and all their children are normal size.

In high school, Reichert wanted to play basketball but the school wouldn't buy speical shoes for him. Later he played professional basketball for the House of David for seven years.

He can recall only once when his height proved a disadvantage. That was when he was rushed to a hospital for an emergency appendectomy. He had to wait two hours while they rigged up a special operating table.

Avocado Tip

CULVER CITY, Cal. — (AP) — If you want to grow avocados which measure 15 inches or more in diameter, take the tip of Glenn R. Kershner and learn the art of top grafting — and do the grafting in the dark of the moon.

Kershner says most fruit is so small because there isn't enough top grafting. A tree on which he did top grafting yielded 50-60 jumbo avocados.

As for the dark nights, he says that is the best time to do work and be assured the king sized yield.

Ike Blasts Gen. Collins for Release of North Korean Prisoners

WASHINGTON — When General Eisenhower first heard that President Syngman Rhee had released North Korean war prisoners he called in Gen. Joe Collins and practically chewed his ear off.

General Collins is chief of staff of the army. He also served under Ike during D-day, was responsible for the heroic capture of Cherbourg. Despite this Ike talked to him like a sergeant drill master bawling out a left-handed rookie.

He referred to the release of Korean war prisoners as another Pearl Harbor.

His remarks, however, were really aimed at Gen. Mark Clark. Collins was the convenient scapegoat. Clark is another close friend of Ike's, carried the money ashore during the North African invasion to pay off Admiral Darlan; later commanded the Italian compaign. But he might have been just a buck private as far as the President was concerned.

Joe Collins and Mark Clark were classmates at West Point and have competed with each other for military honors, so it was an ironic twist of fate that Collins had to take a bawling out for Clark. Immediately thereafter the President sent him packing off to Tokyo to transmit his views to Clark in person.

Inside The Pentagon

Here is the chain of events touched off after the President chewed General Collins' ear off. They give the inside of the message which Assistant Secretary of State Robertson took to Syngman Rhee.

The joint chiefs of staff met at 9 a. m. June 19 to draft a proposed policy paper for General Clark's guidance. This was described inside the Pentagon as the toughest document yet. It went so far as to recommend deposing Rhee "if necessary." The paper advised Clark to try reasoning with Rhee, but questioned whether Rhee's word could be trusted. Finally it suggested getting rid of him if necessary.

Reason the joint chiefs felt it would be safe to depose Rhee was a report from Clark, assuring that the 12 South Korean divisions in the battle line would remain loyal to the UN command. Clark was not sure about three divisions behind the lines, but in these three units, it would simply be a question of removing the division commanders.

At 2 p. m. of the same day, Admiral Fechteler, representing the joint chiefs, met with State Department representatives, ran up against opposition. The State Department flatly opposed getting rid of Rhee, pointed out it would look bad if we "purged" chief of state the way Moscow replaces satellite heads.

The State Department urged trying to reach an agreement with Rhee, recommended suspending the truce negotiations indefinitely, if necessary, until our troubles with Rhee calmed down. As the truce talks now stand, the Reds have demanded to know what we are going to do about Rhee. So the next move is up to us.

The State Department argued that we should not be drawn into a discussion about Rhee, therefore, that we should simply put off the truce until we can come to terms with him. If the Reds are sincere about a truce, the State Department argued, we can get one later as easily as now.

Ike Vetoes

Later that night President Eisenhower, now cooled down, decided in favor of the State Department. Thus the stiff instructions to General Clark drafted by the Joint Chiefs of Staff were never sent.

Rejecting any idea of deposing Rhee, Ike decided to try to come to terms with him. Thus the letter Assistant Secretary Robertson took to Korea is the offer of a new mutual-security pact between the United States and South Korea. Robertson also has full power to act for the President.

Though General Collins told newsmen he just "happened" to be going to Korea on the same plane with Robertson, the truth is he went to do some stiff talking to General Clark, while the Joint Chiefs want him to keep an eye on Robertson to make sure he isn't too wishy-washy with aged, cantankerous, patriotic Syngman Rhee.

Adlai's Tongue

Adlai Stevenson, visiting in the Philippines, was taken up to the mountain summer capital of Daguio by U. S. Ambassador Adm. Raymond Spruance. Early the next morning, they took a walk up into the hills.

"It's a good thing we're not down in muggy Manila," remarked the admiral as he walked briskly up the incline. "If so, our tongues would have been hanging out."

Remarked the laconic Mr. Stevenson:

"I've stepped on mine twice already."

What Jack McCloy, former high commissioner of Germany, now head of the Chase Bank, says about the policies of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles would sizzle newsprint . . . . Oveta Hobby, the lady member of the cabinet is being called "Evita." It's not because she's high-handed, but she runs the equivalent department that Evita Peron ran in Argentina —health, education and welfare . . . . Joe Feeney, who handled Harry Truman's contacts with congress, was approached by Ike-advisers to help with badly snarled contacts on Capitol Hill. "Look" said Feeney, "I'm a Democrat; I'm not working for Republicans." . . . State Department officials say their hardest personal problem is being tough with Argentina when Peron is so ably represented in Washington by Ambassador Paz and his wife Nina . . . . Frontier magazine has measured the space given the Republican candidate for mayor of Los Angeles, Norris Poulson by Los Angeles papers as against the space given Mayor Fletcher Bowron. In the Los Angeles Times it sometimes measured 1,019 inches of type for Poulson against 219 inches for Bowron. (Bowron had favored slum clearance and public housing which the Times, with vast real-estate holdings, opposed.) . . . lopsided political news coverage will be probed by the Ford fund for the Republic.

Tommy Guns Guard British School Children As Suez Oil Tankers Break Traffic Records

Hot enough for you? Along vast lonesome strips of Arabian deserts, little perspiring pockets of Yanks supervise the priceless oil drills. While their homes are air conditioned they must venture out at this time of the year when thermometer tapping a mere 120 seems backward.

To go without a hat would be as wise as trying to reach the North Pole in swimming trunks. Many adopt the Arab style headdress, which curtains all but eyes and cheeks, like a parka.

Pyramids and Pornography

The lusty, larcenous life of ex-King Farouk is still being patiently picked over, with nary a dripping tear for the unpopular fatty. A rash of trials exposing grafters in the late palace party gets lots of Page One space.

Apparently even the former king's valet used his contacts for tapping the public till when not helping his majesty into the royal trousers — size 46 at last feeding.

And a newsman named Karim Tabet stands accused of taking bribes for printed puffs. Tabet served briefly as Farouk's favorite. The most delightful touch: To show the court he was a ripping reporter who chit-chatted with the biggest, the defense produced photographs inscribed to Karim Tabet by Hitler and Mussolini.

Meanwhile, the new government is framing Farouk's collection of pornographic art for display as an eventual tourist attraction.

tries has convinced me that:

Mohamed Naguib, President and Premier of Egypt, is the biggest man of the century in these parts. (1) He booted the despised king. (2) He cut up some bloated estates, handed out free parcels to the poor. (3) He defies the British, joying all Arab Nationalists.

John Foster Dulles might become Top Foreign Pin-up Boy. The Arabs are still not sure, but at least he did visit them, something no U. S. Secretary of State has done before. And he admitted U. S. made errors in the Middle East and promises to correct same.

Walt Disney and Company are non-political favorites. Even in the land of the camel everyone loves a comic mouse. Earliest Disneys without sound are still flickering in remote villages here —on a double-feature bill with first Charlie Chaplins. The way to any man's heart is through his belly-laugh.

THE STORY: The renegade Zad Barnes has just learned that two of his enemies, Pete Morrison and Nate Wilkinson, have slipped through his fingers, just when he thought he had them. Nate is the father of Betty, a girl Zad kidnaped as a child years ago. Pete is an Indian scout who has crossed Barnes.

• • •

XIX

IT was bad enough, Zad Barnes thought, to let one intended victim slip through his fingers, but to let them both get away was more than he could endure. He had anticipated a gloating triumph when he brought back Nate Wilkinson's daughter and, in her father's presence, compelled her to marry Gabe Cox. Now, he thought savagely, if he caught them, he would give Betty to Tobey. After that, Tobey and his braves would take care of Wilkinson and Morrison.

He didn't dislike Betty personally—except when he thought of her father, and the humiliation and pain that man had once caused him to endure. There had been times when he was even fond of her, although he was always quick to anger when she displeased him. Another thing that had stayed his hand somewnat with regard to Betty was that old Jess Williams was his oldest and most dependable man, and Williams would have died for her. His final coup, he knew, would have to be pulled off without Williams' knowledge.

Zad was, of course, instantly suspicious of Cass Dean, the beautiful woman who had arrived during the night with Al Tasker. She admitted having come here to find Morrison, but when he questioned her, her air of innocence was authentic enough to convince even Zad.

"You told me he wasn't here," she complained sweetly, "and I had no reason to doubt your word. He must have dug through that wall before I entered the room, but we didn't notice the hole because of the blanket. I was very tired and I slept soundly all night. A wagon train could have gone through my room without my knowing it."

Zad grunted. It could have been as she said, and he had no way of proving differently.

"What I can't understand," Miss Dean said, "is what Pete could have done. Of course I haven't seen him but once in five years and he was a Yankee soldier."

"You a Southerner?"

"I certainly am," she said proudly.

He was looking at this beautiful woman with new interest. It had been many a year since he had seen anything to match her. She was down here, completely in his hands. He could have her if he wanted her, but it would be nice if he could persuade her to come willingly. After all, he was not so old, and he had plenty of money.

• • •

HE began to spin a fanciful tale of how he had contrived to pester the North all through the war; intimating that he had many times veered outside the law. She seemed to be lapping it up with enthusiastic approval.

"But how does Pete Morrison come into it?" she asked.

"Simple. Now that the Yankees have won the war they're out to punish me and take away everything I've got. Morrison is the man they sent to do it, and I outsmarted him."

"What were you going to do with him?"

He wanted to tell her the truth, but didn't quite dare. "I intended to hold him a prisoner until his government agrees to pardon me. And I was going to make him take money in a way that he would never dare open his mouth."

Cass said, "I think you are a very cunning man, Mr. Barnes. It looks to me as if Pete had it coming to him."

"Why did you want to join him?" he asked.

"It's a long story, Mr. Barnes," she replied. "Pete and I were engaged once, but we broke because of the war. After it was over I got to thinking that perhaps we might make a go of it. Anyway, I wanted to see him. But when I saw him in Echo Junction the other day I realized it was no use."

"Then why follow him here?"

"Strictly for a woman's reason that you wouldn't understand. He told me that he was in love with another woman—your daughter, in fact, Mr. Barnes—and I wanted to see what she was like."

Zad exhaled a mighty breath, then he laughed. "Ain't that just like a woman?" he roared. "Anyway, I'm glad you knowed about it, Miss Dean—"

"Just call me Cass."

"Good. And you call me Zad. As I was saying, I sent my daughter away from here just to keep her away from Morrison."

Cass said, "I believe we really have something in common—Zad. We both dislike Pete Morrison."

• • •

HE said, "I want you to stay here just as long as you feel like it, Cass, and anything you want you've just got to holler for. I think you and me are going to get along."

"I'm sure we will," Cass said sweetly.

An hour after that interview Zad knew that Pete Morrison was on his way to Pangeneet, and had killed an Indian en route. The news supplied fresh anger and apprehension. If both Wilkinson and Morrison got away, and happened to get Betty away from the Andersons his entire plan for revenge would be shot—unless they were fools enough to come on with their wagon train and try to drive him out. He hurriedly ordered pursuit by three white men and several Indians, led by Al Tasker.

In the meantime he could do little except fume. Once it occurred to him to wonder if the Indian boy, Walter, could have given Wilkinson a warning. He didn't think so, because Walter had been with him for years, and knew his capacity to punish if anyone crossed him. Later he would question the boy.

Democrat Pick-Ups

Odds and Ends By News Staff

A young couple living in a nearby town recently bought a beautiful new white convertible with white and gold seat covers—one of the show cars at the Kansas City Automobile Show held recently.

The young wife was invited to a party in Sedalia and her husband was driving her to the party in the new convertible. They were going down the highway feeling like millionaires when it started to rain and it wasn't just a little rain —it was hard. He reached over to press the button to put the top of the convertible up—but he couldn't seem to find the right button.

By this time they had pulled off the road and were working all the buttons—but none of the buttons moved the covertible top. The rain kept coming down and, for fear they would ruin the new seat covers, they decided they had better go back home and see what they could do under the shelter of their garage.

Once in the garage they started all over on the buttons but nothing happened—then they touched something that started the top going and it just kept going, it would roll back and forth, back and forth but wouldn't settle down. They were really better off in the first place, because it had been peacefully curled up at the back of the car then, but now it seemed to be restless and couldn't decide whether it wanted to be up or down.

They couldn't leave it that way and again none of the buttons worked—and they didn't know what to do. After all, she had to go to a party, so the husband got under the car and began disconnecting wires and doing all manner of things while the girl started disconnecting under the hood—and what they really did they just don't know, but the top settled down quietly in place on the back of the car.

Well, they couldn't use the car—that was certain—everything was disconnected—so the husband, who is in the lumber business got his lumber truck and took his wife to the party, while the pretty car they wanted to show off in sat in the garage at home.

Looking Backward

FORTY YEARS AGO

Tuesday at the Missouri Pacific shops several machinists of gang No. 4 quit for a short interval, claiming that the gang foreman was making an effort to "highball" them, which in shop parlance is to rush them with work. The differences were soon adjusted and the men returned to their work.

J. Roy Shy, a Sedalia young man, who for some time was employed at the automobile garage conducted by Richard F. Boehme on South Osage, was dangerously hurt at Cedar Rapids, Ia., last night. Shy, according to information received here, was riding in a motordrome on an autocycle for the Wortham and Allen carnival company which he joined while that attraction appeared here in April.

Missouri History---

Fighting Missouri Rangers Outwitted Troublesome Injuns

"I've killed one of them! I've killed an Indian," a Missouri lad shouted gleefully.

An old hunter named Crow, who knew the tricks of the red man, said, "Don't be too sure, son. Just keep your eye cocked on him 'til I get my gun loaded."

"You're not going to waste lead of a dead Indian, are you?" asked the boy.

The Indian lay in the grass with only part of one shoulder visible. The old hunter took careful aim and fired at that part. The fallen brave leaped to his feet with a yell of pain and ran howling.

The knowledge displayed by the frontiersman of the wiles and cunning of the red man was a characteristic of the Missouri Rangers. They paid their foes the compliment of never underestimating them.

The rapid immigration following the American flag in 1804 brought Indian fighting to Missouri. Those early encounters called into existence a hardy class of military men known as the Missouri Rangers. Their discipline and manner of service differed from that of the regular army. Most of them served without pay, and each furnished his own horse and ammunition. Though they were divided into companies and regiments, no record has been preserved of their organization; if it was made, it was destroyed when the state capitol burned in 1837. We are dependent upon tradition for Ranger history.

Though most of the Rangers were men of reckless courage and daring, there were a few of the opposite nature. There is the story of a certain Harmon, who boasted so much of what he would do when he met the Indians that some of his companions decided to test his courage. One evening a dozen or so young men rode into the woods. Suddenly, came the sound of rapid firing and blood-curdling yells. There were shouts of "Indians! Indians!"

Harmon ran, not stopping to mount his horse, not stopping, the story goes, until he reached the nearest fort, forty miles distant. According to one of the Rangers who sometimes wrote doggerel verse:

"He kicked the dogs,
And leaped the logs,
And scared the frogs,
And plunged into the water."

Names of courageous Missouri Rangers that still live in the history books include that of Captain Sarshel Cooper. He was killed by Indians in 1814, and Cooper County was later named for him. No name was more familiar on the Missouri frontier than that of Captain Stephen Cole. It was he who built Cole's Fort near Boonville and it was for him that Cole County was named.

Captain Beter Craig, who was killed at the "Battle of the Sink Hole" in present Lincoln County, gained the respect of Missourians, as did Captain James Callaway. Callaway County commemorates the name of this gallant captain of the Missouri Rangers, who was killed by Indians in March, 1815. —By the State Historical Society of Missouri at Columbia, Floyd C. Shoemaker, secretary.

Distress Benefits Are Offered Farmers By Agriculture Dept.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Benefits of a distressed price support program on wheat has been extended to Missouri growers by the Department of Agriculture.

Growers short of regular storage facilities may obtain distress price support loans on wheat stored in temporary facilities for a 90 day period. The loan is 80 per cent of the regular price support rate for wheat stored in permanent facilities.

With a bumper crop setimated at more than 34,000,000 bushels, Missouri farmers are hard pressed for adequate storage facilities.

Under the department's move, ground storage will not be acceptable in Missouri as it is in some other states.

TV Scenery, Props Are Not What They Seem on Screen

NEW YORK, (AP)—The scenery and props you see on television aren't always the way they seem on the screen.

So says NBC scenic designer William C. Molyneux, who discloses that there's more than one trick in his trade-tricks that work to your benefit.

For instance, he says, a picture supposed to be centered on a wall actually may be well off center, if the camera is shooting from a side angle.

If the picture actually were centered, it would appear off-center to the camera shooting at an angle.

But if it's placed off-center just the right distance, then to the camera it appears to be placed dead center.

You often see handsome rugs in TV settings, only they aren't rugs. Real rugs would interfere with the cameras rolling in and out for the most advantageous shots. So rug designs are painted on heavy paper laid on the stage.

There's also the matter of perspective which makes distance objects appear to be smaller than near objects of the same size, or makes railroad tracks seem to come closer together in the distance.

Since TV stages are somewhat limited in space, to put it mildly, the perspective often is altered to make things appear bigger or more distant than they are. In a set for the NBC opera Rosenkavalier, to cite one case, there were two big chandeliers hanging from the ceiling of the ballroom. On stage, one actually was close behind the other but to make the second one appear more distant and the ballroom more spacious, it was made smaller but otherwise an exact copy.

The youthful scenic designer, who creates the scenery for the "Voice of Firestone" and the NBC opera presentations as well as numerous other shows, says colors are freely used on his sets although the pictures always come out in black and white and shades of gray.

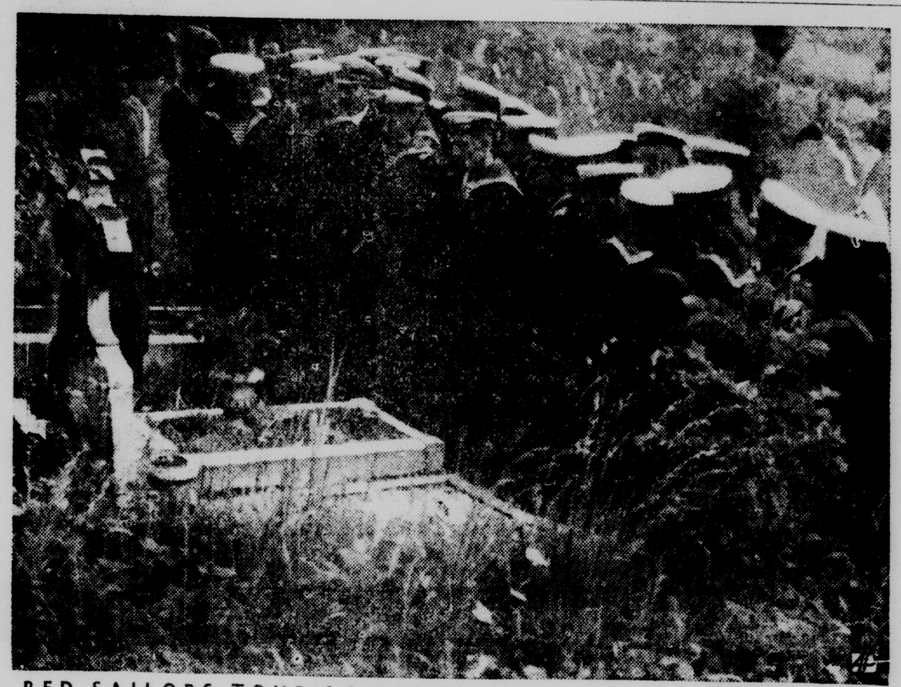

But special care has to be taken with the colors, even so. Molyneux points out that a certain shade of green and a certain shade of pink that would present a vivid contrast to the natural eye might come out in the same shade of gray on the TV screen.

Although color television will require extra care on colors, he says "It will be 100 per cent more rewarding, and in some instances will be more rewarding for us."

Luncheon Honors "Adopted" Moms

The Glensted Home Circle planned, as one of its projects for 1953, trying to make life more pleasant and enjoyable for the older ladies of the community. Each club member "adopted" one of these ladies as her foster mother of the year. This project grew from an idea and suggestion of Mrs. J. E. Marriott.

A dinner was recently given for the adopted mothers at the Ladies building in Glensted.

Upon arrival the guests were presented with a corsage. Many of these ladies were girls together and the group had not been together, as they were that day, for many years.

The guests were seated at two long tables. A two-tiered cake baked by Mrs. J. E. Marriott was the main centerpiece in addition to spring flowers. Before the meal, Oscar White took pictures of the mothers and guests and club members.

After the dinner, they adjourned to the church where the following program was presented: song; scripture and prayer by the Rev. M. A. Thomas; duet, Joan Nolting and Janice Spaulding; solo, David Kline; Mrs. Henry Chaney gave a brief history of our Presidents' mothers; piano solo, Elizabeth Nolting; song, Ann and Sue Kline, Elizabeth Nolting and Richard Gerlt; and talk, "The Glorious Promise," Rev. Thomas.

Gifts were presented to the oldest mother, youngest mother and the mother with the largest family.

The average age of the 14 honored mothers was 89 years, the oldest being 95 and the youngest two 74.

The honorees were: Mrs. Emil Mueschke, Mrs. Amanda Parsons, Mrs. Sue Howe, Mrs. Amanda Brown, Mrs. Elbert Sims, Mrs. Charles Thoss, Mrs. Phil Bledsoe, Mrs. John Kline, Mrs. J. J. Talbott, Mrs. Ola Massey, Mrs. C. M. Woolery, Mrs. Tom Martin, Mrs. Emmett Ball and Mrs. Ida Hubbard. Mrs. Lizzie Cooper of the state of California was a guest mother.

Chiefs Blast Boonville To Win BJ Flag

Skip Schulz Fires Second No-Hitter Of Young Season

The Sedalia Chiefs in general, and pitcher Skip Schulz in particular, erased all doubt here Friday night concerning the No. 1 team in the Central Missouri Ban Johnson League, as the local sluggers battered the Boonville Lions, 11-0, and the strong-armed right-hander fired his second no-hit, no-run ball game in two mound starts.

By virtue of the lopsided victory, the Chiefs wrapped up the first-half BJ flag and brought the league's all-star game to Liberty Park on the night of July 8.

So complete was Schulz' mastery that only two Lion batters reached base, and only one advanced as far as second.

Schulz walked Boonville leadoff man "Cookie" Whitesides in the first, and the same pesky batsman made first in the ninth on a Sedalia throwing error.

Whitesides advanced to second in the first inning on Foster Tekotte's infield dut but died there as Schulz got Cleary on a fly to left and fanned Walker.

In facing only 29 batters, the hard-throwing Schulz fanned nine and walked only Whitesides.

Chiefs Enjoy Two Big Innings

Manager George Thompson's Chiefs, in the meantime, put all their eggs in two baskets, scoring six runs in the first and adding five more in the fifth.

Four solid base-blows, two of them by first-sacker Don Higgins, made things easy for Schulz 'n the first. Combined with three Lion bobbles and a base-on-balls, the local club's safeties pushed across the six runs.

They batted around again in the fifth, punching out three hits while the shaky visitors were committing five errors. Carl Miller's double was the big blow of the frame.

Refusing to let his charges grow rusty, Thompson has agreed to play the Lions again Monday night in an exhibition contest at Slater. This game, in a town without an organized baseball team, is expected to draw a large crowd. The Sedalia team will leave from Cal Rodgers garage at 5:30 p.m.

Thompson will send right-hander Bill Arnold against Boonville at Slater, with Don Delph, the ace of this season's Smith-Cotton team, ready for relief. Neither of these capable moundsmen has seen much action this Ban Johnson season due to the fine hurling of Schulz and curveballer Bobby Brown.

Defense Pleases Thompson

Particularly pleasing to Thompson in Friday night's game was the one-error defensive play of the Chief team and the clutch hitting of Higgins, Miller and right-fielder Dick Dillon, who banged out two safeties before giving away to Dean Edwards in the sixth.

Of course, he didn't overlook his patching, but he's grown to expect brilliant mound work in the past four games.

The all-star game is the next big item on the Sedalia agenda. In no previous all-star encounter has the flag-winner been able to defeat the cream of the remaining teams.

Thompson, in his first year as a manager, expects his club to end this jinx.

Browns Parley Hits, Errors To Trounce A's

PHILADELPHIA, June 27 (AP)—The St. Louis Browns, assisted by two home runs and two errors, defeated the Philadelphia Athletics 6-1 today. It was the Browns' first win over the A's in the last seven games between the clubs. Righthander Duane Pillette helped his own cause by smashing the first homer of his major league career.

Extra basehits paid off for the Browns. The winners made only eight blows off the combined offering of starter Mario Fricano and reliever Charley Bishop but they included the homers and a pair of doubles. Besides Pillette, Don Lenhardt also homered, both off Fricano.

Pillette scored the game's first run with his third-inning blow. The A's got this one back in their half on successive singles by Joe DeMaestri, Dave Philley and Eddie Robinson.

But St. Louis regained the lead when Lenhardt rapped his round tripper in the fourth.

Fricano faltered with two down in the sixth as the Browns pounced on him for two more counters. They resulted on Don Lenhardt's single and successive two baggers by Count Courtney and Jim Dyck.

St. Louis' other pair of tallies came in the ninth which saw Courtney ran to start the inning but he reached base when catcher Joe Astroth let the third strike get away from him.

Dyck then bunted and both runners were safe when DeMaestri dropped Bishop's throw at second. A sacrifice bunt, a walk and Pillette's infield hit tallied Courtney and Dyck.

Dodgers Dump Braves To Tie For Loop Lead

MILWAUKEE, June 27 (AP)—Pee Wee Reese smacked a 350-foot home run leading off the 10th inning tonight to give Brooklyn a 4-3 victory over Milwaukee and pull the Dodgers into a first place tie with the Braves in the national League standings.

The defeat, sixth straight for the Braves, left the two clubs with 41-25 records, one full game ahead of the St. Louis Cardinals who took two from Philadelphia in a day-night doubleheader.

Grimm Alters Order After Loss To Bums

MILAWUKEE (AP) — Charley Grimm made his first major batting order shift of the season today in an attempt to shake his skidding Milwaukee Braves out of their hitting woes.

The stocky skipper, slumped in the corner of the clubhouse last night after a 4-3 loss to Brooklyn which cut his club's first-place margin over the Dodgers to one game, had only grunts for newsmen.

"Yeh, I'm making a change," he barked. "(Del) Crandall will bat second and (Johnny) Logan eighth tomorrow night. That's all."

The move reverses the positions of the two players in the hitting lineup for the second of the three-game series.

Although the Braves are slumping, the redhot Milwaukee fans are not. The paid gate for the Dodgers' opener was 35,145, second largest of the year here, and boosted the total for 25 playing dates to 623,546. The stadium also is sold out tonight and for Sunday's single game.

Wildcat Can't Bark; It Becomes Neurotic

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo. — Conservation Agent Jim Featherston, Butler County, has what may become the first neurotic wildcat reported from Missouri.

Featherston said that a local bobcat hunter bagged a momma bobcat and turned over a 3-week-old kitten to him for disposal. Not knowing what to do, the agent placed the kitten in a big box in the kitchen of his home. His cocker spaniel, with pups of her own, took over the motherless wait and made room for him at the puppy dinner table.

Featherston claims the pups and the cat play well together —and that the cat, now weaned, is worried about its inability to bark. It's frustrated.

Cards Score Double Win Over Phils

ST. LOUIS, June 27 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals withstood Philadelphia's challenge for third place, driving the Phillies three games behind by winning tonight's game, 4-3, after handing Robin Roberts his hardest hammering of the season in a 7-0 afternoon contest.

Giving the Redbirds their 15th triumph in the last 19 games, young southpaw Harvey Haddix scored his 10th victory against only three defeats by hurling an eight-hitter in the dramatic night contest. Gerry Staley gained his 11th win against only two setbacks in the afternoon.

St. Louis won the floodlight game with only five hits off righthanders Bob Miller, who now has an 0-2 record, and Andy Hansen. Enos Slaughter, ending a three-game hitless streak, hammered a two-run triple in the third inning for the most decisive blow.

Leading the Cardinal attack in both games, however, was Stan Musial, who capped a sensational drive over .300—he has gained 52 points in 12 games to .303—by hammering a single and double in the day game and two doubles in the night contest.

One of Philadelphia's night hits was a second-inning homer by Willie Jones, who also singled in the exciting ninth.

A walk and singles by Gran Hamner and Del Ennis produced the first Philadelphia run in the opening inning, a tally the Redbirds matched with a walk and Musial's double.

In the third Haddix opened with a single, Rip Repulski walked and a run scored as first baseman Earl Torgeson threw Solly Hemus' grounder into left field, trying for a force out. Repulski was out attempting to reach third, however. After Musial walked, Slaughter tripled two runs home.

With one out in the ninth the Phillies filled the bases on three singles. Haddix then struck out pinch-batter Johnny Wyrostek. Ted Kazanski followed with a hot smash on which Hemus made a diving stop at shortstop, enabling only one run to score on the hit. Swift Richie Ashburn then slashed a drive off Haddix' glove. The ball caromed toward first base. In a lunging motion Haddix threw underhanded to first for the game-ending out and fell on his face.

In the day affair timely singles by catcher Sal Yvars and pitcher Staley capped a three-run seventh inning.

The Cardinals heavy attack included three more hits than Roberts had given in any previous game and matched the previous high for runs yielded by the sturdy star.

Sports Scraps

(By D. KELLY SCRUTON)

LAST week I brought out that some kind of a recreational program for youngsters 13 years old and up to 17 should be arranged for 1954. I asked for letters of information from those who support the program. Several came and as usual "no signatures" on some.

It was interesting to learn how the interest is. Some kinda think it would be all right others seem to believe the Little League is enough—to which I disagree. One letter I received this week was interesting because it bears out actual facts about the "Little Bigger League" in Des Moines, Ia. Then the following day I had a visit with Mrs. Selken from Smithton making inquiries about the Little League and what her grandson, 13 years old, could do while visiting here.

Of course Smithton is not in Sedalia but it is part of our community, just like LaMonte, Houstonia, Green Ridge, Hughesville, Longwood and other towns in Pettis County. If we had a program, then her problem would be solved just the same as many more proud grandparents who have their grandsons visiting them during the summer vacation.

The letter I received is as follows:

"I am happy to see that you are interested in developing a baseball organization for the 13-14-15 year old boys.

"I have a 13 year old boy who played with the Little League last year, so you can understand my interest.

"I have just returned from a trip to Des Moines, Iowa last week, and while there I learned of their baseball program. They have "Little League" and also "The Little Bigger League" for the 13-14-15 year old boys. In Des Moines they have found that there is not as much enthusiasm for the "Little Bigger League" as there is for the "Little League", however, they still feel that they are both worthwhile programs. They have been able to secure sponsors who furnished uniforms for the teams. They at first tried to have a "Little Bigger League" without uniforms, but were unable to develop much enthusiasm with the boys or the spectators.

"I would like to suggest a man that I believe would like to work with you on this program, and that is, Harry O'Mealy, owner of the Sedalia Bowling Lanes. As you know the Lanes are closed for the summer and Mr. O'Mealy should have some free time. He is well qualified to work on such a program having been a college athletic coach.

"Wishing you success in your efforts, I remain

"Very truly yours,

"James C. Woodsmall."

WHILE I'm on this recreation business, I might add, I still contend that SOMETHING MUST BE DONE FOR THE GIRLS. Not that it isn't a fine program which is being carried on for these young boys, but we still have our girls who need attention just the same as the boys.

I venture to say that if the program were started, there would be plenty of mothers, and young girls of high school age who would be happy to help out and take over the directing of such a program.

But this too takes money. It will be necessary to raise funds to carry out such a program. If the women are ready I have a feeling the money could be obtained. If the proper leadership is put into such a program, there is no doubt the civic clubs, business men and others would contribute to such a recreational project for these young girls.

SOMETIME ago I received a letter from a member of the Missouri State Horseshoe Pitching Association regarding the horseshoe courts at Liberty Park. These courts when in good condition in the past several years saw many a "pitcher" in action and they were the attraction nearly every evening of many players.

The player was appealing to have the courts put in good condition, so they could hold the Association's "B" Tournament in Sedalia. An invitation has been made for the tournament.

For the information of the horseshoe "pitchers" a member of the Sedalia Park Board has promised to see that the courts are put into good playing condition.

Some of the members interested in the Association are Earl Winston, La Monte, who is president of the Missouri State Horseshoe Pitching Association: J. A. Larson, route 2, Sedalia, Raymond Roberts and R. R. Coffman, Sedalia, Raymond Morris, La Monte. The fact these gentlemen have sent word to me about the courts does not mean they are the only ones interested, they just are a part of the Pettis County group.

It is this kind of interest which the Park Board likes to hear about and they'll do their part to see this particular project is carried out.

Buddy Davis Sets New Mark In High Jump; Santee Fails

DAYTON, O., June 27 (AP)—Walt (Buddy) Davis, 6-foot-8 Texas A. and M. graduate, today smashed the world high jump record by a half inch with a thrilling last-try leap of 6-feet-11½ in the 65th national AAU track and field meet.

Davis, now an oil company representative from Houston, Tex., finally achieved his coveted goal of bettering the 12-year-old world mark of 6-feet-11 after several frustrations because of faulty takeoffs.

Davis actually cleared 6-feet-11⅝, but uder an AAU ruling the mark officially was one-eighth of an inch less. This is because in records consideration the new height must be at least one-quarter inch better than the old mark.

The gangling Texan tried again at 7-feet-1½ before a tense crowd of 7,000 and almost cleared it on his last attempt. He was over, but brushed off the bar coming down.

The afternoon's 11-event program, in addition to Davis' new world mark produced six new meet marks, giving the two-day meet a total of nine fresh AAU marks and two record ties.

New York AC Wins Title

Team champion was the New York Athletic Club with 114 points. The Los Angeles A. C., loaded with University of Southern California stars, finished second with 37¼ points, and the New York Pioneer Club third with 59.

The meet's only double winner was Jack Davis of USC, representing the Los Angeles A. C., who won the high hurdles in :13.9 and the low hurdles in :23.7, both close to meet marks.

The old world high jump mark was set by Les Steers at Los Angeles June 17, 1941. Davis topped the 6-feet-11 record last year and earlier this year, only to have the efforts discounted. His epic jump came shortly after Wes Santee of Kansas had failed in an expected try at a four-minute mile, winning in the respectable time of 4:07.6 to shatter a 39-year-old meet mark.

In his final try at 6-feet-11½, defending meet champion Davis cleared the bar without even touching it.

Davis last year won the AAU crown with a meet record leap of 6-feet-10½.

Three Records Fall

Three meet records were smashed and two tied last night, and under bright skies the wrecking carried over today.

Santee Wins Easily

Santee, who won by 30 yards in the mile over Fred Dwyer, shattered the 1919 meet record of 4:14.4, set by the fabled Joey Ray, who competed without the aid of modern coaching methods and techniques.

Santee, who already this month ran the mile at 4:02.4 and 4:03.7, took off second from the outside lane. He cruised easily in third place around the first lap.

On the back stretch of the second quarter the choppy-striding Kansan opened up to move into the lead and was clocked at 2:04.3 for the half. At the three quarter mark, Santee's time was 3:05.4. After that Santee was in front by himself.

Drought Places Missouri's Fish In Grave Danger

JEFFERSON CITY (AP — Missouri's fish population is taking a beating, too, from prolonged heat and drouth.

Streams throughout the Ozark region are too low to give full support to the fish, conservation commission experts say. Dr. G. B. Herndon, chief of fisheries for the wildlife agency, passed on this picture of a few streams as typical:

The Big Piney—At Houston the river level is five inches below the lowest point all last year.

The James, Niangua, Current and Eleven Points—All well known angling streams, all seriously low.

The spring fed streams in Missouri's three state trout parks are in bad condition, too.

At Bennett Spring, near Lebanon, employes have raised the dam height to force more water through the rearing pools. At Montauk, near Salem, the mill race is being used to hold fish the rearing pools could no longer support.

At Roaring River, near Cassville, they're pumping air into the water to keep it cool enough for the trout and if conditions worsen they plan to pump the water back and use it twice to keep the rearing pools operating.

Water levels at the August A. Busch wildlife management area near St. Louis and the new Trimble area north of Kansas City are low but not critical.

In many overflow water areas, teams of sportsmen are trying to rescue the fish from drying holes and put them in more dependable water.

Fishing success, which has been good so far this year, will drop considerably if big rains don't come soon, Herndon said.

3-2 Victory Cuts Losers' Margin In Little League To One Full Game

The league-leading Rotary Club in the majors of the Little League, was held to two runs and two hits by the Elks Club, whose players got three runs off of seven hits. The loss did not change the standing other than put the Elks within one full game for a tie with Rotary. In the first game of the evening the cellar-holding Jaycees trounced on Kiwanis, 10-3.

The Kiwanis Club scored three runs in the first inning to overtake the Jaycees lead of two. However, the Jaycees tallied two more in the third, another in the fourth and fifth and a four-run rally in the sixth, while holding the Kiwanis to their three runs.

Mulcahey started for the Jaycees and was relieved in the fourth by Shepherd, while Jim Mateja was on the mound for Kiwanis.

In the Rotary-Elks game, Rotary jumped to a one run lead in the top of the first, but saw their lead tied in the bottom of the second by the Antler boys, who came back in the third to take the lead and hold to it thereafter.

Burford started on the mound for the Rotary and was relieved in the fifth by Nichols. Burford was charged with the loss. Noland pitched for the Elks and went the route, giving up but two hits.

The games played Friday night were makeup games which had been previous postponed.

GOVERNOR PHIL M. DONNELLY CHAMPIONSHIP SADDLE—To be presented to the champion cowboy contestant in the J Bar H World Champion Rodeo to be held at Camdenton July 9-12 inclusive. The beautiful saddle will be presented by Governor Donnelly on Sunday, July 12, to the contestant who has the greatest number of points for the four days of the rodeo. A silver plaque is attached to the horn of the Saddle designating the championship with the name of Governor Donnelly engraved on it.

Camdenton Ready to Handle Record Crowd At Big Rodeo

Plans to handle a record-breaking crowd in Camdenton on July 9, 10, 11 and 12 have been completed, according to Harry Nelson, sponsor of the J Bar H World Championship Rodeo to be held on the mentioned dates. It will be the biggest outdoor attraction, yet held in the Ozark section.

Nelson reports the inquiries on tickets and accommodations have been pouring in to his office not only from Missouri but many surrounding states for weeks. Camdenton hotels, motels and Lake of the Ozarks resorts are preparing for the onrush of visitors.

The J. Bar H Ranch management has laid out a 60-acre lot for free parking of cars, with free picnic grounds adjoining this area. All of this is next to the huge stadium where the rodeo will be staged.

Featured with the largest and wildest rodeo in the Midwest will be the state championship log-chopping contest, daily 'performances of the Budweiser White Mule Hitch, the Curtiss Pony Hitch, the inimitable Lake of the Ozarks Square Dancers, a band of colorful Sioux Indians in full tribal regalia and clowns.

The Roberts Rodeo Company, long noted for sensational bucking horses and rugged, fighting brahma bulls, is bringing 250 head of stock for the Camdenton event.

Added feature event of the rodeo this year will be a hectic, never-a-dull moment wild horse race. This is horse racing the hard way. The cowboys have to saddle, mount and ride these fighting kicking, bucking wild horses fresh off western ranges.

The first rider to get his belligerent mount all the way down the arena and across the finish line is the winner. Frequently, however, there is no "first" rider, as all horses are carrying empty saddles at the finish line.

On the J Bar H Ranch Rodeo entry list are the names of Who's Who in Rodeo. The first to enter aws Casey Hibbs, champion bronc rider and widely-known as the world's best-dressed cowboy. Along with contesting, Casey will make personal appearances at all performances and he will have a souvenir gift for all kiddies in attendance.

Indians Shove Fading Yanks Further Downhill; Chisox Win

NEW YORK, June 27 (AP) — Cleveland's resurgent Indians gave the fading New York Yankees another push down the hill today by thumping the league leaders 5-0 for the Yank's sixth straight defeat.

It was the most the Yanks' have lost in a row since they blew nine straight in 1945. And it was the first time the New Yorkers have dropped that many in succession since Casey Stengel took over the helm in 1949. Five straight was the previous biggest losing streak under Casey.

The loss chopped the Yanks' lead over Cleveland to seven games and to seven and a half over the rampaging Chicago White Sox who topped Boston, 6-5. The Indians now have won four in a row, two of them over the Yanks, and the Chicago White Sox have a six-game victory streak going.

Cleveland's two huskies, righthander Mike Garcia and socking Luke Easter, kept the Yanks on the skid path. Big Mike yielded nine hits but was murder in the clutch. Luke, hitting safely in his eighth straight game, clouted his first homer of the year in the fifth inning and that was the ball game.

The Indians added single runs in the sixth and seceth innings and two in the eighth to spoil Eddie Lopat's spotless record. The Yankee lefthander suffered his first defeat since July 2, 1952, when Boston turned the trick. Lopat had won 13 in a row.

Mickey Mantle got his first hit in 15 times at bat in the eighth inning when he singled. Before he smacked the hit he was greeted by ripe Bronx cheers from some of the 33,030 onlookers.

Minnie Minoso's two-out double in the ninth drove in two runs in Chicago's three-run burst in the ninth to keep the White Sox's streak alive. Jim Rivera and Ed Stewart homered for Chicago.

The Chicago Cubs broke a four-game losing streak by edging the New York Giants, 2-1, thanks to old Dutch Leonard's clutch pitching.

Cincinnati's Red Legs went on a ten run spree in the seventh inning to clobber the Pittsburgh Pirate, 15-5. Ted Kluszewski hit his 22nd homer of the year with two on in the big inning.

Hogan Listens To Demeret

Partner Gets Bantam Benny To Go Abroad

(Not since the days of Bobby Jones, has a golfer going to the British Open stirred up so much interest as Ben Hogan's first appearance in it at Carnoustie, July 6-10. Jimmy Demaret, one of contemporary golf's big names, is the playing partner and confidant of Hogan, recent winner of his fourth United States Open in six years and now being ranked as the greatest shotmaker of all time. In this penetrating five-part series written exclusively for NEA Service, Demaret gives an insight on Hogan, the golfer and man.)

By JIMMY DEMARET
Three-Time Masters Champion

CONCORD INTERNATIONAL, N. Y. — (NEA) — I'm about the only guy in golf Ben Hogan will listen to.

I'm not saying that to brag. I've known Ben since before 1932, when he was an amateur in Fort Worth.

I talked Hogan into going to Scotland for the British Open when he was here for an exhibition at the Concord International Course at Kiamesha Lake, where I'm the professional.

"What would I want to go over there for?" he shrugged. "What would it prove? I don't like boats. They say the food is bad, tell me a hotel room is next to impossible to get, and, besides, what have I to gain?"

"You owe it to the game," I told him.

"You're a legend over there. They want to see you.

"Carnoustie is where golf came from and a great course."

"I don't see you going over," Hogan countered.

"A fella like me still has to make a living," I replied.

The next day he dropped into Golf House in New York and entered.

Ben, you see, doesn't have to worry about money.

But some day he's gonna be a lonely little man because people just don't know and appreciate him.

Like after the recent Open at Oakmont. He comes into the clubhouse, a big smile on his face for a change, looks at all the boys, and says, "Where's everybody been all week?"

"Well," cracks one of them, "if you'd look up once in a while, you might see somebody."

There was the freshly-crowned champion, after winning his fourth United States Open in six years, practically alone in the clubhouse.

But such is his concentration during a tournament that he'd walk by his best friend without seeing him.

Ben Hogan, believe it or not, wouldn't hurt a fly despite all the talk you hear about him being cold and ruthless. You have to scratch a bit to get at the real Hogan. He'd like to be popular, but just isn't built that way. He'll quaff a few with the boys, enjoys a joke as well as anyone, but when it comes to golf he just can't unbend.

Byron Nelson, who caddied with Hogan when they were kids in Fort Worth, was as great a golfer as you'd want when in his prime just before and during World War II. By was a great front runner. If he didn't start with a couple of birdies, he'd just say to himself, "Aw, to heck with it." He'd backhand a few shots and still shoot a mighty fine round. Remember, he had Hogan's number in those days.

Hogan never in his life has thrown away a shot in a tournament or a practice round. That's the key to Ben. He'd hit several bad shots in a row, but he wouldn't give up. He'd make the next one good.

In the Rochester Open of 1941, Hogan shot a 64 in the first round for a new course record. He had 10 birdies but took 6 on a par 4 17th.

I came in with 69, and I'm hanging around the clubhouse gabbing with the boys until it is almost dark. I go out to the car and in the dusk I see a fellow practicing all by himself, hitting ball after ball. And it looks like Hogan. I walk over, and sure enough it is.

"What're you trying to do, man?" I look at him. "You had 10 birdies. They're thinking about putting a limit on you."

Ben Hogan looks at me real serious-like, and says, "You know, Jimmy, if a man can shoot 10 birdies, he should be able to shoot 18.

"Why not birdie every hole on the course?"

NEXT: Ben Hogan's idea of a fine round is to beat his opponent 18 up.

Pros Smile As PGA Nears; Hogan's Gone

BIRMINGHAM, Mich., June 27 (AP)—With Ben Hogan some 3,000 miles away in Cornoustie, the country's golf professionals can relax and enjoy their own private tee party next week.

It's the 35th annual championship of the Professional Golfers Association — a 216-hole medal and match play marathon which begins with qualifying Wednesday and continues through July 7.

The site is the cozy Birmingham Country Club, a short 6,465-yard, par 71 layout which has been doctored up a bit for the occasion by the widely-known fairway architect, Robert Trent Jones.

It was Trent Jones who "souped up" nearby Oakland Hills for the U. S. Open two years ago, and you can still hear the outraged cries of the competitors.

The advance favorites are broken-handed Sam Snead, seeking his fourth PGA title; George Fazio, who led the country in sectional qualifying; defending champion Jim Turnesa, Dr. Cary Middlecoff and Jackie Burke.

These are the boys who usaully collect the big dough when Hogan and Lloyd Mangrum aren't first in line. Mangrum, second to Hogan in the year's money winning list, also is in Carnoustie seeking the British Open title.

Hogan, a two-time winner, wouldn't be caught dead in the PGA tournament since his near fatal automobile accident in 1949. It's too tough on his legs, he says.

Snead, winner in 1942, 1949 and 1951, has a bone separation in his left hand and says he has difficulty gripping the club. But he promises to play in the PGA, adding: "I don't know how far I'll go but I'll start anyway."

NCA Refuses To Backtrack On Subsidies

CHICAGO, June 27 (AP) — The North Central Association's executive committee today refused to water down its ban on subsidies for college athletes.

The powerful 17-state academic accrediting group reconsidered its strict prohibitions after presidents of major colleges within its jurisdiction protested against the NCA's athletic code.

NCA action last March in threatening to disaccredit Oklahoma A & M for alleged subsidizing and recruiting of athletes led to the protest by the presidents.

The executive committee confirmed that it acted today on he status of Oklahoma A & M but declined to divulge any details. The group also acted, but maintained public silence, on the case of Bradley University, Peoria, Ill.

Bradley was placed on probation for one year for alleged athletic abuses and academic weaknesses.

A committee spokesman said the NCA had notified both schools of the action taken but added, "any report of our action must be made by the institutions involved."

At Peoria, school officials said they had received no word from the committee.

The NCA committee said, regarding its refusal to make its athletic code less stringent, that an athlete can obtain a scholarship but he must meet the same academic standards as a non-athlete and must show a financial need.

Logan Belts Six Hits As Leaders Outscore Sweet Springs, 22-10

With Cliff Logan lashing out six straight hits, including two doubles and a triple, the Sedalia Schlitz Leaders outraced Sweet Springs in a marathon softball game, 22-10, Thursday night on the losers' field.

Scoring at least once in every frame, the Leaders made things easy for pitcher John Roberts, who eased through a ten-hitter.

Three home runs highlighted the 20-hit Sedalia attack. Johnny Burnes hit for the distance twice and catcher John Swisher parked one. Forbes of Sweet Springs also clouted one four-master.

The Leaders play at Emma tonight in a Central Missouri Softball League contest. All players are asked to be at 420 Wilkerson at 6:30 p.m. to make the trip.

Babe Zaharias Starts Battle To Return To Golfing Wars

NEWTON, Tex., June 27 (AP)—Babe Zaharis starts the stretch drive in her fight to return to golf next week, conqueror of cancer "through the help of God."

The greatest woman athlete of them all, declaring "I've got to find out if I can play," left by automobile for Tampa, Fla., today and will begin getting the feel of a golf course again as soon as possible.

Almost a miracle is the recovery of the mighty Babe from the ravages of the dread disease. Just two months and ten days ago she was operated upon in a hospital at Beaumont and the sports world sorrowed that the Olympic star of 20 years ago—the woman who attained the pinnacle of sports in everything she tried—might never appear in competition again.

"When I found I had cancer I thought the world had fallen in," said the indomitable Babe today as she prepared to leave for Florida and the golf course she and her husband, wrestler George Zaharias, won. "But I had to pull myself together. I said, 'Come on Babe, you got to get a birdie.'

"Everysbody can do the same thing if they'll just take the proper care of themselves. I was fortunate to find I had the disease when I did, before it had spread over my body. Everybody should have periodic examinations. We can all whip cancer if we'll do that and if we'll just not be afraid."

Dr. Robert M. Moore, who performed the operation, and Dr. W. E. Tatum, the family physician, both gave her clearance today to return to golf where she was the greatest woman player of them all. Dr. Moore left it up to her as to when she might start. That was enough for the Babe.

"I'll have to find out if I can play again," she said, "that's my life—playing in big tournaments before crowds. If I find I can't do it I'll devote the rest of my life solely to a campaign against cancer."

The first thing, said the Babe, is to get her legs in shape. She will do a lot of walking. "I'll walk as far as I can go. I won't be playing at first. At each green I'll use my eight iron to chip and then I'll putt. I expect to add a hole a day to my walking. In two or three weeks I can start hitting the balls. I hope to be back in competive golf within three months."

The Babe, who lost more than 10 pounds while in the hospital and got down to 130, now is up to 150. "I feel great," she said, "But I get tired very easy. But I haven't been idle. Even in the hospital at Beaumont I worked my legs and arms and exercised."

The operation was April 17. The cancer was removed from the lower rectum.

State Finds Pollution In Creek Near Windsor

JEFFERSON CITY—Both good and bad news on the pollution front in Missouri was reported this week.

Biologist Herbert Fisher of the Conservation Commission's fisheries section reports serious fish kills by rotting sewage in a small creek near Windsor. Fish kills were also reported from Prairie Lee Lake in Jackson County, and pollution of Saline Creek near Fredericktown was investigated.

Good news was reported by Fisher in relation to pollution of South Gabouri Creek in Ste. Genevieve County. The Mississippi River which, when complete, will carry lime wastes directly to the river and eliminate or greatly reduce lime pollution of Gabouri Creek.

Some kinds of wood, like ebony, will sink in water even when fully seasoned.

Briton Runs 4:02 Mile Saturday

LONDON, June 27 (AP)—Making a surprise assault on the legendary four-minute mile, lanky Roger Bannister of England today ran it today in 4:02—the third fastest of all time and only six-tenths of a second off Gunder Haegg's world record of 4:01.4.

A third quarter of 62.1 seconds dashed the hopes of the shy, 24-year old medical student of becoming the first man ever to achieve the "dream" mile of four minutes flat.

Although he was slightly bothered by a pulled thigh muscle suffered June 6 and the hot, muggy weather, the Briton ran the fastest mile since the Swedish great loped to his world record at Malmo, Sweden, July 17, 1945. Haegg's time was two-tenths of a second better than the world standard set by his countryman, Arne Andersson, a year before. Anderson, incidentally, was clocked in 4:02.2 when Haegg created his record.

Bannister, fifth in the Olympic 1,500 meter run, made his unheralded attempt in a paced race at a Surrey schoolboys' meet at Motspur Park. He wanted to achieve the "impossible" before America's Wes Santee went after the same goal later in the day in the AAU championships at Dayton, Ohio.

Roger had turned in a 4:03.6 in London on May 3. Santee broke the American record with a 4:02.4 performance in California June 5.

There was no advance notice that Bannister would try for the record but a host of officials had been tipped off in advance.

Bannister ran against Don Mc Millan of Australia and Chris Basher of Britain on the quarter-mile track.

McMillan's job was to try and pace the three-quarters in three minutes flat. Brasher, a steeplechaser, was to coast two laps—a half mile while the others ran three laps—and then take over as pacemaker when Bannister started his final quarter.

It was hoped that Brasher could lure bannister to run the final quarter in a minute or less.

Everything went smoothly for the first half mile. Bannister did the first 440 yards in 59.6 and the half mile in 1:59.7. But in the third lap the pace slackened and Bannister was caught in 3:01.8. This meant he had to finish in 58.2 to accomplish an even four-minute mile. It took him 60.2.

His quarter times were 59.6, 60.1, 62.1, and 60.2.

Sportsmen Will Play SAFB Team Today

The Sedalia Sportsmen will play the Sedalia Air Force Base team Sunday at 2:30 p.m. at Liberty Park. Bill Hayworth will pitch for the Sportsmen, and Gabby Hays will catch. Sportsmen players are requested to be at the field at 1 p.m.

Houstonia Trims AIO On Home Run By J. D. Gregory

Big J. D. Gregory's only hit of the evening enabled Houstonia to trim Sedalia Air Force Base's AIO Squadron, 9-7, in an extra inning softball contest Friday night at Center Park.

The lanky Houstonia left fielder, who hadn't gotten the ball out of the infield all night, poled a two-out home run with a mate aboard in the eighth to rub out a four-run rally by the Airmen in the sixth and pin the loss on AIO relief pitcher Carol Reed.

Trailing, 6-2, going into the sixth, the Airmen pushed over four tallies on six hits including a four-base blow by cleanup hitter Don Shults.

Bob Estell started for AIO and lasted until his team knotted the count. Reed then came on to absorb the loss.

W. Charles was the winning hurler, throwing a steady seven-hitter. He was in trouble only once, in the sixth.

AIO plays Sweet Springs at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday on the Center Park diamond.

The Houstonia-AIO box score:

Chamber Of Commerce Mails Invitations To Sedalia Open

Saturday morning more than 100 invitations to the Sedalia Open Golf Tournament were sent to clubs throughout the state by the Chamber of Commerce's tourney committee.

These invitations are expected to draw the greatest array of fairway talent ever seen in this city for the July 27 $1,000 pro-amateur event.

Earlier in the week, at a special called meeting of tournament chairman Charles Patterson's group, the entry fee for the classic was raised to $7.50 in following with the doubled prize money, divided $900 for professionals and $100 for amateurs.

Leading the pros, in search of the $300 first money probably will be the personable New Orleans swinger, Freddie Haas, who last week placed second in the rich Inverness Tournament in Toledo, Ohio.

Haas, who played on Louisiana State University's golf team with Dr. Paul Leslie, has received a special invitation from Leslie, who last year won the Sedalia Open with a five-under-par 67. Leslie and Haas will play in the same foursome.

Tourney officials also have received assurance from Paul Weiler, professional at Kansas City's Country Club, that he will see that a number of big-name pros will be persuaded to hit this meet, which takes place the day after the Kansas City Open.

Following the Kansas City tourney, the next big event on the touring pros' circuit is George Hay's world championship meet at Tam O'Shanter course in Chicago.

Weiler, who is president of the Midwest Professional Golfers' Association, also guaranteed that most of the state's better pros will be on hand.

To assure blanket coverage of all clubs in the state, C. D. Hieronymus will distribute invitation cards at the Missouri State Amateur Tournament, which opens Tuesday at Springfield.

For the amateurs the local tourney offers four merchandise prizes of $40, $30, $20 and $10 with 20 additional awards donated by local merchants.

Pros and amateurs will compete in separate brackets; prizes will be awarded the first seven pros in the following sequence — $300, $200, $150, $100, $75, $50 and $25.

The gallery fee for the tournament will be $1.

Cy Young Now Gives His Time To Little League

By JOHN McCALLUM
NEA Staff Correspondent

DENTON Tecumseh Young seems to go on forever.

Today's Cy Young isn't very much different from the unassuming pitcher who won 511 games, more than any other major leaguer.

The 85-year-old Ohioan spends most of his time instructing and advising Little Leaguers.

"There ain't much to being a ball player," he tells the boys from 8 to 12, "if you're a ball player. I tell the older boys to keep in shape all year round. It's gettin' back into shape for the baseball season that takes it out of most fellas.

"Don't be babied if you're a pitcher. Don't spend too much time on freak pitches. Just rear back and fog 'em through there. Be fulla spunk. Above all, have fun. Baseball is only a game.

"That's what made Honus Wagner a great shortstop, because at heart he remained an amateur."

Dr. Eugene Zorn gives Little Leaguers an idea what Hall-of-Famer Young means about physical condition.

"Little Leaguers should follow a simple training program," says the Brooklyn Dodgers' physician. "Foremost is nine hours of sleep and a well-balanced, solid diet. Kids shouldn't eat an hour before a game. Avoid greasy foods and pastries. After the game, before going to bed, give them a glass of milk and a sandwich."

Dr. Zorn stresses that baseball is not a dangerous sport for kids when played right.

"Youngsters often warm up improperly, causing sore arms and shoulders," he warns. "Like big leaguers, they must keep themselves well-covered, even in hot weather—both during and after the game."

Little League training diet has become a household word. A mother who used to get the "Aw, gee" response to her demand that wee Johnny eat his spinach finds that he is very eager to eat it when there's a game to be played.

"Our boy eats everything," beams one mother, happily. "I asked him why the change.

" 'Because,' he said, 'I want to have a lot of power behind that ball.'

"He gets more rest, too, takes a nap before the game. I'll walk into his bedroom, and there he is sound asleep with his pitching arm heavily covered.

" 'Gotta keep it warm,' he said. 'Gotta keep m' arm in good shape.' "

Dog Assumes Care Of Week-Old Kittens

FORT SCOTT, Kas. (AP)—Tippy, a black shepherd dog, has taken such a fatherly interest in a pair of week-old kittens here that Skit, the mother, leaves everything to him except the feeding.

Skit, the pet of Mrs. Louise Wheeler, gave birth to the kittens last Friday. Since then the dog, pet of Mrs. Garland Harris, has stood watch by the kittens' basket. He even bathes them.

Skit never did protest the arrangement and seems to approve.

Shadow Time

By Hazel Lang

Just before the day is gone
Just before the night comes on,
That's the time the shadows creep;
When I kneel beside my bed
And I bow my little head
As I lay me down to sleep.
'Tis the twilight of the day
When the shadows start to play
And I go to sleepy town;
There along the nursery wall
They grow big and they grow small
As they gather all around.
There are animals and flowers
There are castles, too, and towers,
Just like in my story book;
There's a lovely fairy queen,
And a pirate, bold and mean,
And I'm most afraid to look.
There's a sturdy pioneer
And an Indian standing near,
With some feathers in his hair;
There are folks from many places,
There are folks with funny faces,
I can see them everywhere.
Then at last the blue gray light
Turns into the black of night
And I come from shadow land
For the sandman's been about
Chasing all the shadows out
As he throws his sleepy sand.

B'Way Theater Becomes Own Problem Child

NEW YORK, (AP)—The Broadway theater has become its own "problem child" today. The live stage, confronted with the competition of 3-D, television and other amusement channels, is moving towards the new season with little to give it high hope.

Actors, actresses, playwrights, producers, drama critics, stage hands, electricians, in fact everyone connected with the theater, are highly concerned with what's happening around Times Square.

At the farewell performance the other night for the historic Empire, one of those who appeared was Edna Wallce Hopper, again in the role of "The Girl I Left Behind Me," a part in which she opened the Empire in 1893.

"When the Empire opened," said Miss Hopper, now a successful Wall Street stock broker, "Times Square was a quiet, uptown residential district. There were no high buildings the Empire is being torn down to make way for a skyscraper and the only building of any importance in that neighborhood was the Metropolitan Opera House.

"At the theater, people always used to dress and a red carpet was rolled from the carriages to the entrance of the theaters.

"Today all that is changed. Times Square now resembles the Coney Island Boardwalks. Now Broadway has everything except, perhaps, a roller coaster. It has flashing signs, shooting galleries, noise, smells and hot dog stands.

"There is no more elegance in the theater . . . and theater going is no longer gracious."

Another pessimistic voice about the state of the Broadway theater comes from Richard Watts Jr., the drama critic.

Watts i concerned because audiences seem disposed to go only to hits, and will not support plays which have merit but lack popular appeal.

"Our musicals are the most brilliant in the world," he says, "but a healthy theater can't survive on the musical play alone. With its rivals, the movies and television, making rather a mess of their job of providing popular entertainment of free creative distinction, the theater has what may be its last opportunity to regain its lost heritage . . . .

"It must develop some new playwrights, attract the attention of new audiences of young people, somehow reduce its production and admission costs, make acting on the stage an economically feasible career for ambitious young players, and build some playhouses that don't make theatre going a chore." All in all, a rather large order.

The new Broadway season will begin in September. One of the earliest openings will be such an old-timer as "Sherlock Holmes." It will get under the wire just ahead of a modern new show with the modern title of "The Solid Gold Cadillac."

Keep the Fourth Sane---And Safe---

Death takes no holidays. During the recent Memorial Day weekend there were 410 fatalities. Traffic accidents claimed 251 lives; drownings 94 lives; fires, 10 lives; plane accidents, eight lives; miscellaneous accidents, 47 lives. The National Safety Council expects hundreds more will lose their lives over the July 4th holiday. Many of these may live if they observe the suggestions below. Read them carefully! "The life you save may be your own."

Texas Has Been Hit by the Worst Drought In Its History, Creating New 'Dust Bowl'

DALLAS, Tex., (AP) — Drought-desperate Texas farmers and ranchers this week set up a holler for help that roared clear to Washington and sent Secretary of Agriculture Benson on an inspection tour of the state's devastated areas.

Texas has been hit by the worst drought in its history.

It's a drought that is going into its fourth year, a drought that has created a new "dust bowl," piled blowing topsoil deep across highways and railroad tracks, sucked ponds, lakes and streams dry, and stunted and killed crops before they could finish sprouting.

It's a drought that has made rangeland grasses as dry as excelsior and forced ranchers to dispose of their cattle at ruinous prices. Country bankers say they have reached the "end of their rope" in extending credit and storekeepers have windows full of goods their customers can no longer buy.

Sweeping more than 900 miles down the length of Texas from the northern border of the Panhandle to Brownsville and nearly 450 miles across at its widest points, the drought now grips 128 counties in the western part of the state and encompasses more than half the land area of Texas.

Starting in the high Panhandle-plains area the drought has burned its path westward into the vast cattle ranges of far West Texas and the rugged Big Bend country and southward across the rolling sheep-and-goat country to the "winter garden" area and the lower Rio Grande Valley.

It covers an area comparable in size to the New England and Atlantic Coast states lying northwest of a line drawn from Toledo, Ohio, to Washington, D. C.

And if a drought of equal intensity were to hit that northeastern region, you could walk from Manhattan to Brooklyn across the dry bed of the East River, Washington would be pumping its municipal water from puddles left in what had been the Potomac, and the New York Central would have crews out shoveling sand off its tracks so the Twentieth Century Limited could get through. Farmers of Pennsylvania would be entering their fourth year without harvesting a crop and diarymen in New England would be spraying their shriveled grass with molasses to tempt their cows to eat the only available fodder.

That's what they are doing now in the parched rangelands around Marfa in the Big Bend country.

Ranchers, including Floyd Henderson, M. D. Bryant and Bill Shurley, have shipped in truck tanks and railroad cars full of black strap molasses. They have sprayed the molasses on the dry tobas grass which the cattle usually refuse to touch. The cattle go after the sprayed grass like a kid after candy. The grass provides needed roughage and the molasses provides nutrients.

This Texas drought has burned a different pattern in the state than did the great drought of the mid 30's. Then it was the Panhandle-High Plains area that was the "dust bowl."

Though suffering from lack of rainfall, the northernmost part of the state has experienced far less soil erosion than it did two decades ago because of better farming and soil conservation practices.

The Central and South High Plains area where irrigation by pumping from underground strata has been developed, is one of the few green spots in the entire state today.

The wrath of the drought has been directed at the area around Plains, Brownfield, Tahoka, Seminole, Lamesa, Gail and Big Spring near the point where the southeast corner of New Mexico bites into Texas.

In that sector, the powdery topsoil has turned crop lands into sand dunes, blinding duststorms have covered highways so deeply with sand that bulldozers have been needed to keep the roads open, trains have been stopped while sand was shoveled off the tracks, and wind is howling here and there past the symbol of the drought's might—the empty farmhouse.

How do the people manage to stay with the land after three years of drought? With many it's a matter of guts and credit.

Asked for details of his crop failures, one drought-worn farmer in this devastated area replied "if you wrote me and my story up in the paper, I couldn't get any more credit at the grocery store."

The crop failures of this area are reflected in other parts of the state.

D. E. Jackson and son, who operate 10,000 acres of land in the Coastal Bend and Rio Grande Valley usually get 1,000 bales of cotton.

This year they expect to harvest 150 bales.

In Kleberg County, Dr. J. K. Northway said he will harvest nothing this year from 300 acres planted to flax and 1,800 acres planted to grains. On Texas A&I College's farm near Kingsville, 500 acres in grain sorghums have been a total loss.

Non-irrigated wheat on the North High Plains has been virtually a failure this year.

Around Lamesa cotton is the main crop but they haven't made a cotton crop in three years.

Intense early summer heat has added to the misery of the drought and helped dry up remaining surface water.

The prolonged drought has reduced the Rio Grande to a trickle this summer all the way to Brownsville and the Rich Valley region which depends on the river for irrigation water. Several times this summer the Rio Grande has stopped flowing.

The rain gauge at Big Spring tells the story of the drought and the crop failures. The last month in which normal rainfall fell was in September of 1950. During the past three months only .19 of an inch was received, compared to the normal of 3.83 inches for that quarter. In 1951 only 10.11 inches and during 1952 only 8.45 inches fell compared to the annual normal of 18.21 inches. During the first six months of this year 2.30 inches has fallen to date compared to the normal of 8.22 inches.

Frank Reynolds, farm editor of the Big Spring Herald who lived at Dalhart on the North Plains during the 1930's says that the current "dust bowl" on the South Plains is far worse than the one of two decades ago.

The drought is forcing farmers either to leave the land or seek part-time employment in town, he reports.

Riding the ranges with the drought has been another calamity—falling cattle prices.

Farmers and ranchers who bought cows before the price drop are caught—they can't afford to sell at current prices because the proceeds would not cover the indebtedness against them, they haven't been able to raise feed, and they can't afford to buy feed.

Hundreds of thousands of head of cattle have been shipped out of Texas to other states for pastures. Hundreds of thousands have been sold simply because the farmer or rancher didn't have the money to buy feed.

Many ranchers have cut their herds to just foundation stock. One government official has estimated that in 40 counties in Texas cattle raising has virtually disappeared.

At Big Spring, farmers have brought their cattle to the local auction only to have them go through the ring without getting a single bid.

This week choice beef on the hoof slumped to a new low of 16 cents a pound at Dallas with some lower grades down to 5 cents a pound. There have been reports of some Texas cattle going for as low as two and three cents a pound in sacrifice sales.

The drop in prices has been reflected in Texas retail stores. This week Fort Worth butchers were offering hamburger for 12 cents a pound; T-bone baby beef steaks at 39 cents; sirloins at 33 cents and rump roast at 35 cents.

President Eisenhower, following a request from Gov. Shivers, this weekend designated parts of Texas as a "major disaster area" and Texas congressmen have been plumping in Washington for more liberal credit, lower cost feed, some form of price supports for cattle, and a slaughter program to reduce the number of cattle in the state.

Rep. Ken Regan of Midland this week urged that the government buy two million head of Southwestern cattle at 10 to 12 cents a pound to help bolster prices. He said that easier credit or lower price feed alone would not help.

Some cattlemen want more credit and cheaper feed to keep their herds going until the price situation improves.

Arch Benge, 73-year-old San Angelo ranchman, is dead set against a slaughter program.

Benge has shipped 1,150 head of cattle to pasture in Oklahoma and now has only 150 head on his Texas ranch.

For his West Texas cattle Benge is having to pay $33 a ton for hay and $90 a ton for cake.

"But they're not going to kill my cows and sheep. They'll starve to death before I will let the government step in and shoot them," he said.

Even the prickly pear, a form of cactus that thrives when all other vegetation has died is no longer an emergency feed. By burning off the stickers, the cactus can be eaten by cattle. It worked last year but some South Texas ranchers report that because of the long drought, the prickle pear now has become so dehydrated that it is no longer edible.

The cattle industry is not the only one that has been hit by the drought. The U. S. Department of Agriculture this week reported that the spring pig crop is the lowest of any on record in Texas.

And the dairyman is having his trouble too.

R. H. Barnett of Valley Mills, west of Waco, in Central Texas tells about the lot of a dairyman in drought-stricken Texas.

"In the past year the price of milk has dropped $1.36 a hundred pounds. Alfalfa last year cost me $1 a bale and now it costs $1.25 a bale."

Eggs are now selling for 85 cents a dozen. But in this 100 degree weather, my hens won't lay. They won't even get out of the shade and scratch. The only thing I can do is pray for rain."

The farmer, the cattleman, and the dairyman all have one thing in common because of the drought—they are having to put out more money to keep going than they can take in. They have to have credit.

At a four-county meeting of farmers, ranchers and business men in Stanton this week, bankers Robert Currie of Big Spring and Jim Tom of Stanford declared that banks have extended credit as far as they can.

"The government can help solve this matter by arranging some longterm credit," Tom said. "The farmer just needs more time. They can work it out as they have before. This has happened before in this country and we've come out of it, if we are given a little leeway."

Tom's faith in the Western Texas country is the same faith that the weathered West Texas rancher expressed when he said "tain't nothin' wrong with this country that rain can't fix."

Chicago uses 2,000 tons of coal a day just for the generation of electricity.

Unauthorized Phone Calls Cause Trouble

NEW YORK, (AP) — Did you ever find a long distance call on your telephone bill that you couldn't account for only to discover a week-end guest had made it without saying anything about it?

Such unauthorized calls are relatively rare, says American Telephone and Telegraph Company. But they turn up. There is the case of the lady burglar who broke into a Baltimore apartment and ran up a $75 bill on a call to Paris before being cut off.

The company didn't disclose who paid that bill, but a St. Louis real estate firm had to pick up a $200 long distance tab on a working telephone it had put in a model house to give it a more homelike appearance. Prospective clients had made themselves too much at home, calling friends all over the country.

Then there was the father in Charleston, W. Va., who had ordered a telephone installed. When he returned from work he was told by his two young children the phone was in and operating.

"It works fine," they told him. "We've spent all day talking to other people who have telephones, even people who live way far away."

It's well known that folks often get a yen to make long distance calls when they've had a couple too many, and a lady customer in a Connecticut town took steps to protect herself. She asked the manager to have her telephone fixed so she could receive calls but couldn't make any.

She explained that she liked to take a drink now and then and on those occasions not only made a lot of calls but was insulting to her friends. She would order the one-way arrangement for a few days at a time, then would ask regular service restored.

Veteran Editor Dies; Was Active in State Republican Politics

BRAYMER, Mo., June 27 (AP)—A. J. Martin, 82, veteran editor of the Braymer Bee, and prominent in Missouri Republican politics, died here yesterday after an illness of nine weeks.

Martin had been blind for the past eight years, but had dictated every line that went into the paper during that time. His column, "News and Views," was widely read.

He formerly edited the Unionville Republican in partnership with the late Clarence Conger. He served one term as U. S. marshal for the Western District of Missouri and in 1915 purchased the Bee. He served several terms as publicity director for the Missouri GOP State Committee and was state campaign manager for Col. Frank Knox in his unsuccessful bid for the presidential nomination.

In 1944 Martin sold a half interest in the paper to Mrs. Grace Hart, formerly of Versailles, Mo.

Survivors include his widow; two daughters, Mrs. Hazel Johnston, Savannah, Mo., and Miss Helen Martin, Kansas City, and a son, Capt. Lee David Martin of the marine corps at Portsmouth, Va.

State PSC Agrees To Check Crossings

JEFFERSON CITY, June 27 (AP)—The state Public Service Commission agreed today to look into the dangers of railroad crossings in St. Louis.

A St. Louis grand jury found that the crossings were hazardous and that warning lights or gates would not eliminate the danger the jury said grade separations were needed.

Fountain Adventures

STILLWATER, Okla. — (AP) — Officials of Oklahoma A&M College didn't count on student pranks when they constructed the ornamental marble fountain in front of the new $4,500,000 library.

First off, a catfish was found swimming in the cool, clear water. Then a few students tried to cool off.

When campus cops were posted, the youths took it as a dare and began dropping in dyes. The fountain pool alternately glowed purple, red and green.

To end it all, someone dropped in a batch of soap flakes and the next morning the pool was sudsy.

All Fish Have Personalities; Diver Hates Sport of Spearing

By HAL BOYLE

SHELLY BAY, Bermuda (AP)—Fish are more friendly in summer than in winter. A fish also finds it easier to figure out the personality of a person than a person does that of a fish.

"And all fish do have personalities," insists Bronson Hartley, who knows a number of them well enough to call them by their first names.

Bronson, a tall, slender ex-New Yorker of 33, has spent more than one sixth of his life under water in the seas around Bermuda.

He and his pretty dark-haired Cuban wife, Martica, have taken more than 6,000 tourists for deep sea dives and conducted walks along the ocean floor here in the last five years.

The hidden life that swarms around the coral reefs has fascinated Bronson since he built his first diving helmet at the age of 11—the helmet he himself still uses.

He spent two years working with Dr. William Beebe, the famous underseas explorer. After completing military service, he went to work for an oil company here, but was unhappy.

"I would hop on my bike and ride out to the ocean, and think 'Gee, what a waste of a wonderful day,'" he recalled.

So he threw up the job, and decided to do what he most wanted to do—find out what really goes on in the strange world beneath the waters.

"There is more to learn here than anyone could find out in many lifetimes," he said.

Martica and he lead happy, arduous lives. But Martica, who steers their boat, "The Arc," and supervises the diving operations, laughs at the idea there is any danger to it.

"We have taken down children of 5, and people as old as 83, she said. "It is much safer at the bottom of the ocean than it is on a highway."

Over the years, Bronson has made pets of many fish, which he feeds by hand. His favorites are two beautiful angel fish—Helen and Ruth.

"Helen is so tame now she will swim through a hoop for me, and eat out of anybody's hand," he said. "It took me only six months to tame her, but a year to make friends with Ruth.

"I can make two appointments a day with Helen, and she will always be there on time. But Ruth is unpredictable.

"Ruth has an unusual ability. She can sense whether a stranger is neurotic or odd in any way, and will immediately swim away. It never fails. She sometimes can judge a stranger much quicker than my wife or I can. On the other hand, she loves children—unless they are mentally deficient. And believe me, she can sense it if they are, and won't come near.

Bronson has been feeding Helen for five years, and is as fond of her as if she were his child.

"We took a six-month vacation," he said. "And the first day I was back and went down to the reef she swam out to meet me, and it was as if I never had been away. But she was narrow and gaunt, and her eyes were sunken. She had had to learn how to fend for herself again while I was gone."

I asked Martica if she were ever jealous of Helen, and she threw back her head and laughed:

"That's the kind of competition I don't mind."

Bronson, a quiet, intense man, is bitter over the present popularity of spear fishing among both tourists and natives. He is particularly angry over the death of Mortimer, a blue-striped grunt.

"It took me four years to get Mortimer to eat out of my hand," he said. "Mortimer wasn't scared—just dumb—because he would let me kneel by him.

"Suddenly one day he turned and came into my arms. This went on for a year—and then someone speared him."

Hartley paused, remembering, then broke out passionately:

"They spear a helpless trusting fish for fun . . . not for food, because they don't eat the fish they spear . . . and they call it a sport! Why don't they take up a shotgun and go out and murder bluebirds?"

Missouri History—

Bibles for Bullwhackers

A hard-bitten "bullwhacker" with the job of driving ox teams from Missouri across the western plains did not always possess the most delicate of drawing room manners. He very probably had an unfortunate bent for hard drinking, fighting, violent profanity, and harsh treatment of the plodding oxen which seemed the cause of all his woes.

Alexander Majors of Jackson county, a veteran of the Santa Fe trade and a partner in the great transportation firm of Russell, Majors, and Waddell, knew that freighting attracted a rough breed of men. But he believed that orderly, sober, God-fearing men made the most efficient employees.

His efforts to modify the frontier character attracted attention in a West notorious for its unrepressed ways. As part of the campaign, Major's firm presented a Bible to each employee. Wagon trains were expected to observe the Sabbath as a day of rest, and when Majors accompanied a train he held Sunday church services where he preached and led in the singing of hymns.

Majors wrote out a pledge to be signed by the men he hired. If they could not read, it was read to them and they signed with a mark. In it they swore that while employed by the firm they would drink no intoxicating liquors, use no profane language, and would not quarrel or fight with any other employee. They promised to conduct themselves honestly in every respect, and they were forbidden to treat the oxen cruelly.

Whether or not any of the bullwhackers were permanently reformed by pledges and Bibles, the system proved to be good business. Probably no firm enjoyed a greater reputation for integrity and efficiency than did Russell, Majors, and Waddell in its heyday.

In the years just before the Civil War, the company held vast government freighting contracts, and its wagons doted the Santa Fe, Oregon, and California trails by the hundreds. The partners contracted to supply the U.S. Army in Utah in 1858, ran stage lines to Pike's Peak and California, and in 1860-61 operated the Pony Express between St. Joseph and Sacramento.—By the State Historical Society of Missouri at Columbia, Floyd C. Shoemaker, secretary.

Construction Continues at SAFB Despite Rumors to the Contrary

10,000-Foot Runway Is Being Leveled, Pouring of Concrete Will Start Soon; Old Buildings Have Been Rehabilitated

By D. Kelly Scruton

Seeing is believing and Sedalians, being a part of Missouri, the Show-Me State, oft times have to be shown to be convinced. While untrue rumors circulate these parts especially in the Sedalia Air Force Base area that the base is to be closed, work on 21 millions dollars worth of construction goes on day in and day out.

A few weeks ago several thousand people from over Missouri visited the SAFB during its open house and saw the construction, which at that time might be classed as in its infancy. Today, in these brief few weeks with weather conditions favoring contractors, construction work has advanced to where it is now running according to schedule.

This writer, last Tuesday, had the opportunity of taking a base tour with Col. Franklin K. Reyher, commanding officer of the base for the United States Air Force Stragetic Air Command, and Major Marion F. West, of Col. Reyher's staff. Practically all of the construction sites were visited to see what progress had been made.

Outside of the large runway and apron contract of approximately six-million dollars, the big hanger is the largest single contract of construction at a cost in the neighborhood of two million dollars. The physical appearance on both of these projects has changed considerably since the "open house."

At that time the overlay was well along on the taxi-ways, while the 10,000 foot runway hadn't shown enough to give the visitors any idea of what was really going on. The base of the large hanger was then merely a lot of concrete piers with short steel piling sticking out of the ground. No one could conceive a building nearly seven stories high to be placed on them.

The earth excavation calls for the moving and switching around of more than a million square yards of dirt. Much of this excavation has already been done on the new runway and taxi-ways. As an example, a small hill had to be sliced into cutting down the earth more than 16 feet and at a width of 400 feet or more. This earth is being moved from the north end of the runway down to the southend and center part to bring it up to level.

The grading for the numerous taxi-ways is nearing completion and pouring of concrete has started on them. Pouring of the runway is expected to start within a very short time.

The overlay on the aprons in front of the hangers has just about been completed, giving the concrete a thickness of more than 20 inches. The taxi-ways will not be quite as thick as the long runway, which will be between 16 and 21 inches thick.

The Tecon Corp., Dallas, Tex., has this project and declared it will complete its work by Sept. 1. Incidentally the Tecon Corp., has a lease on the rock quarry at Georgetown and is moving from this quarry to the Air Base each day more than 70 carloads of gravel over the Missouri Pacific. It is stock piling the gravel at the base.

This project means the moving of millions of square yards of Pettis County rock up to Johnson County. Moving of this rock keeps two switching crews busy each day, from early morning to late at night.

The structure work on the hanger has progressed rapidly and the skeleton steel frame is now towering high into the air. It is so constructed that work engines of big planes, possibly four at a time, can be done. It is one of the larger hanger constructions of the Air Force.

Five houses, four of which are duplex type, had been completed and ready for occupancy. Col. Reyher has already moved his family into the residence for the commanding officer of the base. This is under the Curtiss Construction Co., of Eldon. for $76,594.

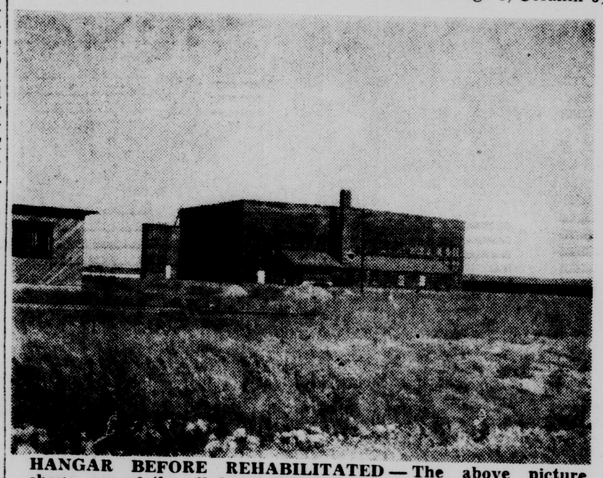

The construction of 13 two-story wood frame airmen's dormitories and three one-story wood frame mess halls and administration buildings are nearing completion. This construction is being done by Martin K. Eby Construction Co., of Wichita, Kan., at an estimated cost of more than $2,000,000.

Work is also progressing on construction of roads, railroads, and parking areas by the Menefee Construction Co., of Sedalia., at a cost of more than $700,000. Menefee is taking gravel from a quarry near Dresden and hauling it by trucks to the base. It was reported that before his work is completed more than 21,000 truck loads of gravel will be transported to the base.

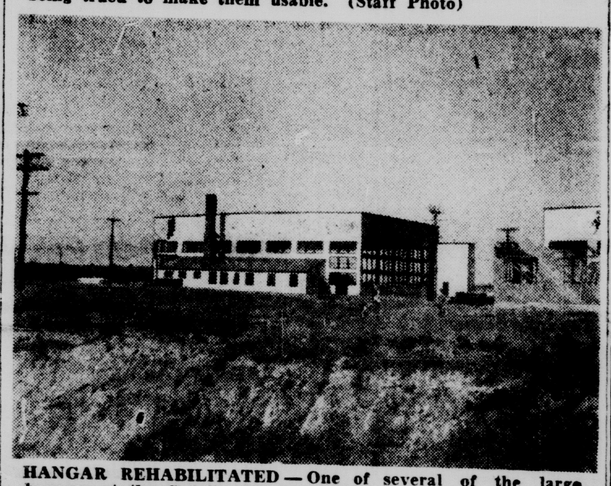

Base headquarters building is still to be started, while four combination squadron headquarters and operations buildings are already under construction. Three bachelor officers' quarters two stories high, storage buildings, warehouse buildings, and many many other buildings are now in the process of "going up."

A large number of old barracks buildings, which were left standing on the base when World War II ended, have been rehabilitated.

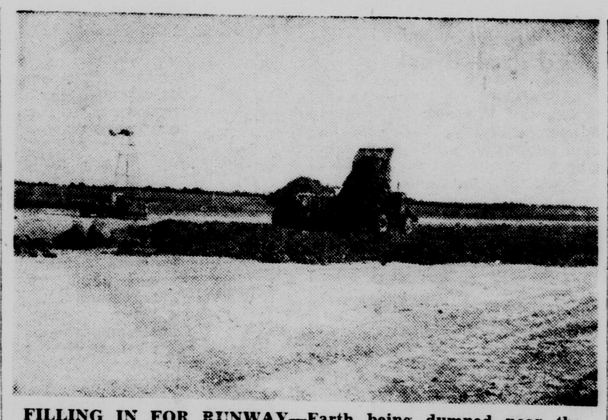

(Please turn to Page 3, Column 6)

HANGAR BEFORE REHABILITATED — The above picture shows one of the all frame hangars built during World War II at the Sedalia Air Force Base before it was repaired and rehabilitated. Pine boards used as siding have either warped or deteriorated to such condition they cannot be repainted or used. Asbestos shingles are being used to cover the structure. New roofs are being placed where needed, and hangar doors are being trued to make them usable. (Staff Photo)

HANGAR REHABILITATED — One of several of the large hangars at the Sedalia Air Force Base which has been completely rehabilitated. The appearance is that of a new building. The building has been repaired, doors trued, and windows replaced. (Staff Photo)

FILLING IN FOR RUNWAY—Earth being dumped near the south end of the new 10,000 foot runway at the Sedalia Air Force Base, was cut from a hill on the north end of the runway. A steady stream of trucks are used in shifting of the earth. (Staff Photo)

National Hiway 50 Association Being Started

Four State Highway 50 Association presidents met in Gunnison, Colo., this week to discuss plans for forming a National Highway 50 Association. They were: from Missouri, E. V. Fryhoff, Warrensburg; from Kansas, Harry Liggett, president of Highway 50 North, of Herrington, and R. Roy Taylor, Dodge City, President of Highway 50 South, and the host president from Colorado, P. C. Moshisky, of Montrose.

The occasion was the annual meeting of the Colorado Highway 50 Association.

Attending with Mr. Fryhoff was Andrew Herman, a director of the Missouri Highway 50 Association, Inc., from Kansas City.

Great interest in forming a National Highway 50 Association was expressed by everyone who spoke on the subject and a temporary committee of the state presidents of Highway 50 Associations was formed to go into the matter of enrolling other state Highway 50 Associations with the purpose of establishing a national group.

Fryhoff was named chairman of the temporary committee. They will meet at a later date upon notification from the chairman. The Missouri representatives were asked to work toward enrolling Illinois as Highway 50 boosters as their No. 1 objective.

After the meeting, a beautiful colored film of Colorado Highway 50 scenic attractions was shown. This film is available for showing before civic clubs, according to Mr. Fryhoff.

That irrepressible zany is back, this time with shivers and shakes of laughter in "Scared Stiff," the brand-new Martin and Lewis comedy-sensation opening today at the Fox Theatre. Co-starred with Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis are Lizabeth Scott and the South American bombshell, Carmen Miranda. The fun-film plays through Wednesday at the Fox.

Clark Gable and Gene Tierney interrupt a bathing interlude for a moment of romance in "Never Let Me Go," current attraction at the Upton Theatre through Tuesday. The excitement packed MGM drama tells the story of an American newspaper correspondent who smuggles his wife from behind the Iron Curtain. Companion hit — the wildest story ever filmed of that lusty, lawless territory they called "Cow Country."

Mickey Rooney receives instructions from beautiful Lieutenant in the correct Army salute, in this scene from "Sound Off," hilarious comedy in color. Playing at the 50 Hiway Drive-In Theatre in Sedalia this Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

SAFB Construction

This work was done by the GWL Construction Co., Little Rock, Ark., more than a year ago and many are in use for mess halls, storage, barracks for airmen now stationed at the base, and offices.

Work on rehabilitating several of the large hangars on the taxi aprons is well underway. This work is being done by E. L. Sievers Construction Co., of Sedalia. The local firm also has contracts for several other buildings at the base, a number of which have already been completed.

There are hundreds of motor vehicles which are stationed on the base belonging to the Air Force. Much equipment is also being handled temporarily out of one of the large hangars which had to be turned into a supply depot until the construction of buildings where this type of work is handled is completed.

There is on the base at the present time millions of dollars worth of construction equipment necessary in building the base, as much, if not more, than what the government is spending on its construction.

An interesting feature at the base will be coming up within the next few days. The Air Force asked for bids on the harvesting of hay on the base. Cutting of the hay will be a merry one since it will have to be cut in swaths between the biggest road machinery available anywhere.

It certainly will not be any place for a hay cutter or binding machine to get in the way of some of the huge earth hauling trucks, derricks, cranes, bulldozers and the such.

But, all in all, it is certain proof the Sedalia Air Force Base is there to stay and the Show-Me people can easily be shown.

Yvonne De Carlo Is Through With Pictures, She Claims

By James Bacon

HOLLYWOOD, (AP)—Yvonne de Carlo is through with publicity romances, so she says.

"They've backfired on me just once too often," she bemoans.

The black-haired beauty was referring to her reported romance with Carlos Thompson, the Argentine actor.

"We were making a picture together so the producers asked me if I would go out with him a few times to get his name in the gossip columns. I was a good sport and did so.

"So what happens? The columnists make a big thing out of it. One famous female columnist recently asked in print: 'Are Yvonne de Carlo and Carlos Thompson secretly married?'"

Latest episode in the so-called romance has Yvonne feuding with Piper Laurie, Thompson's new girl friend.

"Believe me, there's no feud because there's nothing to feud about. Carlos never was any more than a dinner companion to me and only because my bosses arranged that."

As soon as she finishes her current "Border River," now on location in Moab, Utah, the well-traveled Yvonne probably will take off for Europe again.

"I have one boy friend over there who believes the gossip columns. I'll have to square this Thompson one with him."

Early in her career, she was in love with someone she really wanted to protect from the gossips.

"So I invented a wholly fictitious romance with a man who didn't even exist and whose name I dreamed up," she discloses. "Would you believe it? To this day, I still see my name linked with the phoney romance."

She has never revealed — nor has anyone found out—her one true love of this 1945-47 period.

"It was very personal," she explains. 'That's why I invented the other romance to throw everybody off the right track."

One of the town's more glamorous bachelor girls, she claims she has not yet found the right man to marry.

"I'd like a man who would beat me—not necessarily physically, but mentally, at least. One who could really dominate me. They're hard to find. I've been self-reliant so long that I'm getting too hard to please. Why, I have never found a man who could drive a car better than I."

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Dennis Day's writers like to put real names in his television scripts. So look what happened here.

A few weeks ago a new character was introduced on the show by the name of Marion Reese. The script had her coming from Carroll, Ia.

The inspiration for the character in Dennis' secretary, who is Marion Reese, a native of Carroll, Ia.

Although the real Marion and the TV one, played by Carol Richards, do not resemble each other, Miss Reese has received letters from old schoolmates who believe she actually is playing herself on the show.

Some even wrote that they recognized her on sight.

The real Miss Reese wants the matter cleared up because the writers are toying now with the idea of having the video Marion threaten to do a striptease in a Hollywood night club.

"Then," she moans, "I'll never be able to go home again."

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Vic Mature, who has never had anything but an appliance store premiered in his long Hollywood career, believes that he has his bosses trapped with "The Robe."

"Usually," says Vic, "they sneak preview my pictures one night and then put them in the theaters the next day. 'The Robe' cost four million dollars. Let's see them kiss that one off without a premiere.

"I may have to get my tux pressed after all."

Family Tradition

CANSO, N. S. (AP) — James E. Tate here carried on the blacksmith business which his family has been operating for almost 100 years. His grandfather started the smithy in 1859 and his father conducted it before James took over.

Stevens Has String of 25 Charm Schools

CHICAGO, (AP) — Glamor is made, not born — and Patricia Stevens, whose business is putting the polish on beauty, has proved it in building a million-dollar, plus business of "charm emporiums."

Orginally set up to teach model training, the 25 charm schools she directs under her name in 25 cities in the United States and Canada have become career centers.

Thousands of young women have enrolled to become airline stewardesses, executive secretaries, fashion and merchandising careerists and professional models. But most enroll to get the charm.

Miss Stevens claims 50,000 graduates who are happy homebodies or up-and-coming career girls. Employment and casting agencies operate with her schools.

Some 10,000 women enroll annually in classes designed to give the gals what they need to make them charming. Courses include training in drama and speech, makeup, hair styling, personality, wardrobe planning, general grooming, how to sit, walk and dance. Special training is provided in psychology, social graces and salesmanship.

Miss Stevens herself is liberally endowed with the products of her business — glamor, poise, polish and self-confidence. But her success is based more on shrewdness and salesmanship.

Born in Clear Lake, S. D., pop. 997 less than 40 years ago, Patricia Stevens grew up in Sioux Falls and at 16 moved to Chicago to finish business school. Her first job was as a typist in a stenographic pool. Her second was as a private secretary to a Chicago magazine executive at $18 a week.

"I had a friend in New York making $75 a week modeling, so I went East," she said. "First I got myself a stenographic job because I didn't think modeling was secure."

She soon became a successful Manhattan mannequin. Then she took a part-time job teaching in a New York school for tyro models.

She came to Chicago again in 1942 and with a cash outlay of $82.80 set up shop to dispense glamor. She launched a campaign to tell clubs, career girl groups and women in industrial plants how they could be glamorous.

Her modeling agency and school flourished. By 1944 she was setting up schools in other cities. Her first was in Indianapolis, then Milwaukee, Detroit, Hollywood, San Francisco and Kansas City, Mo.

"The business built up like a chain letter," she said.

Among successful graduates are Lola Deems, married to Jack Carson; Kay Christopher, who plays in Westerns for Universal-International, and Barbara Ann Kelly, 17, now with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Miss Stevens' firm employs 1,000 full and part-time instructors, but teen-agers receive special attention from Miss Stevens herself.

"If they come to class in leather jackets and blue jeans, and chew gum, we won't let them stay. We send them home," she said.

Hal Boyle's Column---

Sends Open Letter to Ike, Describes Bermuda's Wonders

By HAL BOYLE

HAMILTON, Bermuda, (AP) — An open letter to President Eisenhower:

Dear Ike:

When you come to Bermuda next month for the Big Three conference, you are going to run into one big problem that isn't on the program.

That problem will be how to keep your mind on international woes in a coral wonderland where nobody was meant to worry, and few people feel like arguing. Coming to this island paradise with a problem is like bringing your mother-in-law along on a honeymoon.

World politics could hardly find a pleasanter beachhead, and if I were one of the statesmen I would tell the others:

"Fellows, why not be sensible about this? Let's talk and talk, but don't settle the issues before us. If we do settle them, we'll have to leave this climate and go back home."

This may explain why I am not a statesman.

The home folks here are highly flattered that the conference will make Bermuda a world political center. They regard it as perhaps the most important single event here since a British admiral accidentally ran into the islands in 1609 and had the forethought to claim them for his queen. The Spanish actually had been here earlier, but made no objection, not realizing how profitable the tourist trade would become a few centuries later.

The Bermudians know that you, Sir Winston Churchill, and the French representative—if France gets around to naming one—have a heavy agenda. But they are very proud of their colorful islands, and hope you can take time off to see the sights.

The Mid-Ocean Club, where you will meet, is beautifully situated. Better bring along a pair of blinders. For it will be hard to concentrate on Germany, Korea or the faraway Iron Curtain if you glance out the window. The mind begins to wander, the heart to dream, at the riotous glory of flowers, the soft sky, the calm wide sea, blue as a child's eyes.

You look out at all this loveliness, and you think: "why can't life be as clean and quiet and peaceful as this for everyone everywhere?"

They have erected a wire fence around the clubhouse to keep out sightseers. Your security guard of 250 hand-picked Royal Welsh Fusiliers is drilling daily.

Naturally you will want to bring along your golf clubs, for the Mid-ocean course is ranked among the half dozen finest anywhere. You probably already have been told to beware of the dog-leg fifth hole. But you'd better be careful also in teeing off for the first three holes. A bad slice—and, if you want your ball back, you may have to swim out into the ocean for it.

As you and Sir Winston are probably the world's best known amateur painters, you both might want to bring along your easels and brushes. This land is a painter's delight. And—who knows? —two men painting the same scene might find that made it easier to reach agreement on other things.

The Bermudians hold you in warm personal esteem. It would give them great pleasure if you wore their summer costume—long socks, shorts, and sport shirt. If you are bashful about baring your knees, you might wait and see what Sir Winston does. If he breaks out in shorts, certainly no other statesman would need hesitate to follow. The gossip here is that Sir Winston's knees have dimples.

One final tip: Bring along plenty of suntan lotion—and Mamie. A fellow who visits as fair a place as Bermuda without his wife is bound to get an earful when he gets back home—even if he lives in the White House.

Sincerely,

HAL BOYLE

BOONVILLE (AP) — Mrs. Hans Broderson made it in the nick of time.

Flying to this country from Hamburg, Germany, she was met in St. Louis by her husband and rushed by car to a Boonville hospital, where she gave birth to a boy six hours after her arrival.

Broderson came here from Hamburg last October.

Two Take $2,196 From St. Louis Cafe

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Two armed men took $2,196 from a St. Louis cafe in a noontime robbery in which one shot was fired and 15 employes and customers were forced into a back room.

The pair escaped in a car, stolen earlier. The vehicle later was found abandoned two blocks away.

July 4 Accident Toll Can Be Cut If You're Careful

NEW YORK — On the basis of the Independence Day Highway accident total last year, one person will be killed or injured over July 4th weekend during each interval equal approximately the time it took to read this sentence.

According to Paul F. Stricker, executive vice president of the Greater New York Safety Council, 348 persons were killed and 14,900 others were injured in the nation in automobile accidents during celebration of the three - day Fourth of July weekend last year. This figures to one casualty each 17 seconds at the ratio of one death for each 39 injuries.

Mr. Stricker said that he believed that this "appalling" holiday accident rate would be materially reduced if motorists would observe these precautions: (1) Take long trips by stages, making coffee and rest stops of ten minutes at least once every two hours. Refreshments and relaxation prepare muscles and reflexes for the next leg of the trip; (2) Don't let traffic congestion get your goat. Irritation upsets judgement and leads to chance-taking; (3) Start early enough to arrive at the destination without speeding. In scheduling the trip make adequate allowances for coffee stops, meals and possible delays because of heavy traffic.

In the 85 seconds it took the average person to read this entire item 5 persons will be killed or injured in July 4th traffic.

Finds Sleeping Wife Picking Leaves in Tree

ENID, Okla. (AP) — A 27-year-old Enid housewife, who sleep walks at midnight when the moon is full, was found nude early today picking leaves 20 feet up in a tree.

Police answered a call from her distraught husband, who was unable to find his wife.

He told authorities his wife often walked in her sleep and it was always when the moon is full and around midnight.

Police reported the following events:

The husband, an employe of a utility company, found his wife missing from her bed shortly after midnight.

He searched the neighborhood and was unable to find her. Alarmed, he called Enid police who started searching the area. The woman was spotted in the tree as a full moon illuminated the weird scene.

The woman, still asleep, was nude and picking leaves while she balanced on a limb 20 feet in the air. The fire department was called and rescuers working silently so that the woman wouldn't be startled, stretched a life net under the tree.

The husband then climbed the tree, carefully wrapped his shirt around his wife and gently awakened her.

She fell into the net and he followed.

The husband reported later his wife was extremely nervous but apparently none the worse for her experience. However, he said he would watch her a little closer when the moon is full.

POWER
you've never seen before

IN A TRACTOR THIS SIZE
The CA Tractor is actually a new size in the Allis-Chalmers line. Here is a two-plow tractor with all the snap and power you could ask for Watch the way it handles its Two-Bottom plow in all kinds of soil. It hustles every job with extra traction and reserve power.
Ten-inch tires on ten-inch rims put more of the tire in contact with the ground — for increased traction. Slower low gear and optional Two-Clutch control give unusual power take-off capacity.
You ought to see this tractor work. Give us a ring and we will let you try it in your fields.

Fair Is Farm Show With Much Entertainment

Though the Missouri State Fair is basically agricultural and instigated primarily as a medium where farmers might display their wears and enter livestock and farm products in competition for cash prices, the fair today has taken on added features of entertainment where the exhibitors as well as the throngs that attend the fair may find pleasure, fun and enjoyment.

The state fair, staged on a spacious 276-acre plot of ground at Sedalia, has long been recognized as one of the outstanding fairs in the nation for its agricultural, home economics, industrial and educational exhibits.

This year, effort has been unstinted by both management and fair personnel to assemble the most colossal entertainment program ever presented fair-goers in the fair's 51 years of history.

On the program appear such features as grand circuit harness racing, motor car thrill shows, big car and stock car races, motorcycle races, Barnes-Carruthers stage show and musical revue, Cetlin – Wilson world's largest midway shows, champion horse show, fireworks and star studded water carnival.

In short, the nine-day 1953 Missouri State Fair, August 22-30, has much for everyone and a lot for all. The fair to see in '53!

When the United States declared its independence in 1776 there were 10 colleges in the country.

Split Personality Street

PARIS — (AP) — An example of France's split political personality is to be found in the avenue running west from the suburb of Neuilly, four parts of which have different names.

The avenue starts out as the Avenue Gen. Charles de Gaulle, then after a few blocks becomes the Ave. President Wilson, then changes to the Avenue Georges Clemenceau, then finishes up, as it branches to the right, as the Avenue Josef Stalin.

Oberlin was a co-educational school from its beginning in 1833, a somewhat unusual status at that time.
